Poor Miss Marceau! Good King George Wicked, Wicked Fund Easy, on Machine Guns

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1920.

Emily Marceau of the movies, summons and sues Smythe Addison, director. Rising "through a hole rimmed with fire," Miss Marceau was held suspended in the air by a thin, invisible wire circled about her waist. Addison, she says, went out to lunch with the other gentlemen and left her hanging in the air for two hours and a half. A long lunch, a strain on the patience. Sympathize with Emily Marceau.

Sympathize also with Uncle Sam, left hanging in the air, with a thin line of red tape around his waist as he rose from a hole rimmed with fire, called the World War.

Somebody went away for a League of Nations' lunch and left him hanging up there in the war for a good deal more than two hours and a half. Emily Marceau can sympathize with her Uncle Sam, who hasn't been let down yet. He's still in the air, still in the war.

King George refuses to release MacSwiney on the ground that his Ministry would probably resign.

To a certain French King came an intelligent nobleman, saying, "The trouble with our country is that a few of us own all the land, the peasants own nothing. Let us give the peasants a chance to own the land and thus avoid trouble." The King thought it was a pretty good idea and said so. The other nobles said, "We want our land, we know what to do with the peasants." They denounced the first noble as a traitor to his class. Later, the King, whose name was Louis XVI., lost interest suddenly in all mundane matters and the nobles lost their land. The French peasants got it, and still have it.

Once in America a statesman in the South suggested that it would be a good idea to end slavery and let the North pay to the South the full cash value of all the slaves.

He was denounced as an enemy of the South, although he meant well. His name was Calhoun. Later all the slaves were set free. The South, instead of being paid for them, spent a hundred times their value trying to keep them, and the North spent two hundred times their value in trying to free them.

Nobody will interfere with the health and happiness of gentle King George perhaps. But if he were a King, and not fourth or fifth generation in a line of vermiform appendices, he would know that some things are more dangerous than the resignation of a Minister. One of the things more dangerous is to watch a man starve to death in a courageous protest against oppression.

Figures are interesting. When you say fifteen million dollars rapidly it seems a lot of money, and is a lot of money.

Democrats say the Republicans, wicked, wicked people, wanted to raise a campaign fund of fifteen millions. Too bad, very sad.

What have Democrats in office to say to these figures?

Fifteen million dollars would be fifteen cents for each inhabitant of the United States. Every time you Democrats in office allow the sugar thieves to sell a pound of sugar for twenty-five cents, you allow them to steal fifteen cents from the public. Every time an American bought a pound of sugar for twenty-five cents he was robbed of fifteen cents. Don't you think it would pay him to contribute fifteen cents once to get rid of the kind of government that allows the vilest kind of profiteering to survive the war and steal fifteen cents for every pound of sugar?

When the Democrats get through saying what they think about Mr. Harding's campaign fund, interesting imaginary thinking, perhaps they will tell exactly why they have done nothing about their friends, the profiteers, that began by stealing a thousand million dollars through the Aircraft Board, and have kept it up ever since, in every direction!

"Troops fire on West Virginia strikers. Machine guns are used to clean woods of band." It may all seem necessary. But government, national and State, will, if wise, proceed cautiously with the machine gun program.

Many machine gun bullets have been used up in the last five or six years. It seems a pity to use more of them unnecessarily. The people most interested in stability and the reign of law in this country are also most interested in keeping little machine guns in their garages.

Children were advised to count ten before saying angry words. The government is advised to count ten and then read the dispatches from foreign labor centres before ordering out the machine guns. The easiest thing in the world is to overdo shooting.

Wife Kills North End Man

GIRL SEES FATHER SLAIN

Tells Police Mother Fired Fatal Shot After a Night of Quarrelling

Mrs. Mary Spinuso, thirty-five years old, today shot and killed her husband, Antonio, as the climax to an all-night quarrel in their home at No. 65 Charter street, North End.

She was arrested not far from the house, while attempting to escape, and was booked on a charge of murder.

The two small daughters of the household, Lena and Josephine, were witnesses of the shooting. They were hysterical from fright when found alone in the house with the body of their father.

Lena, who is eleven years old, told the police her mother shot in self-defence, as Spinuso was so enraged he would undoubtedly have killed her.

Marks on the man's face indicated that he had been scratched by his wife during a struggle.

The police found three loaded revolvers in the house, including the weapon with which the killing was accomplished.

The children were unable to give the police any idea of the nature of the quarrel between their parents. Neighbors heard the shot, but did not investigate.

Lena said her mother remained in the house until nearly 7 o'clock, when she told the girl to go to the home of a friend in Everett and inform her of the tragedy. Mrs. Spinuso said she was going to the police station to surrender.

The child left the house, and meeting a neighbor told him of the shooting. He informed the patrolman on the beat, but Mrs. Spinuso had left the house.

Some of the officers investigating doubted the girl's story of self defence, and expressed the opinion that she was "coached" by her mother. They said Spinuso's expression was peaceful, and that there was no indication of a prolonged struggle.

Fuller, Ex-Mayor Curley of Boston, Congressman Gallivan of South Boston and Marshal Duane of Waltham. BEGGED PONZI TO RETURN MONEY

Police Find Letters From Investors at Home of Farmer in North Lexington

Papers and documents of Charles Ponzi which may throw considerable light on his assets have been found in the building on the farm of Frank Cannissius in North Lexington.

These papers were removed from Ponzi's Lexington home about ten days ago without the knowledge of the bankruptcy receivers by the farmer, who declares he was to receive $10 to cart them away.

Although the greater part of the papers is nothing more than waste, letters and bank receipts were found among them of a significant nature. Most of the documents had been torn across or partly destroyed, but enough of each remained to establish its contents.

Among the letters were appeals to the promoter by "investors" who asked for the return of their money minus the fifty per cent. "profit." One missive, signed by a Mrs. Lane, read as follows:

"Mr. Ponzi—Please give me back

Cox's Evidence Shows Only Small Pledges for Unauthorized Campaign Book

Chicago, Sept. 2. — Governor Cox's long awaited "evidence" of an enormous Republican "slush fund" was given an airing before the sub-committee of the Senate investigating campaign expenditures.

The "evidence" which proved to be more of a "dud" than a bombshell, was not introduced as coming directly from the Democratic candidate for the presidency, but was given by Wilbur W. Marsh, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

Marsh admitted it was all the evidence he had.

CONSERVATORY TEACHER DIES AT CAIRO, EGYPT

Mrs. Jane Forstier Boynton, for many years a member of the New England Conservatory of Music faculty, died last Monday at Cairo, Egypt, where she was spending her Summer vacation. News of her death came in a cable to her husband, Clark G. Boynton, of No. 382 Riverway, Brookline.

Mrs. Boynton was planning to return to the Conservatory September 29.

FREIGHT HANDLERS QUIT

Walk Out When Men Engaged to Break Strike of Longshoremen Start to Work

With one British steamship lying idle at her dock, and the loading of two others greatly retarded, the strike of Boston longshoremen as a protest against British treatment of Ireland was further complicated today when a number of union freight handlers quit work.

The walkout of the freight handlers occurred when seventy strikebreakers began to stow the remainder of the cargo of the Leyland liner Nitonian at the Hoosac Tunnel docks.

It was believed that the loading of the Nitonian would be completed before night, permitting her to sail for London less than forty-eight hours behind schedule.

In the meantime the Cunard line freighter Anglo-Mexican, loading for Glasgow, lay at East Boston with no work going on, no longshoremen having appeared. The Leyland liner Caledonian, also at East Boston, was being loaded for Manchester, Eng., with a depleted crew of longshoremen.

A detail of police was on duty at the Hoosac Tunnel docks in Charlestown, but while striking longshoremen were in evidence on the nearby streets, they made no attempt to halt the work.

Rumors were prevalent along the waterfront that the strikers would be paid from a fund raised by Irish sympathizers.

BOSTON COMPANY BUYS WORCESTER BLOCK

Worcester, Sept. 2.—The Bankers' Realty Company of Boston has sold a brick block on Main street valued at $320,000 to Mr. and Mrs. David R. Kearney. It is said Mr. Kearney represents a Boston syndicate which has plans for the erection of a building on the present site, at Main and Walnut streets.

Pope Benedict Prays For MacSwiney

By International News Service.

Rome, Sept. 2—Pope Benedict XV. is keenly interested in the hunger strike of Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork.

After mass in his private chapel on Wednesday, the Pontiff delivered a brief prayer for the Irish Lord Mayor, dying in Brixton jail at London.

Numerous telegrams are received at the Vatican daily invoking Papal intercession for MacSwiney.

Receiver Hannigan and Counsel for Old Colony Exchange Promoters Confer

John E. Hannigan, receiver of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company, and counsel for the "get-rich-quick" mirage, held a private conference at the receiver's office in Barristers' Hall today.

The report of Auditor Arthur Grimes was discussed, particularly certain funds which have not been accounted.

At the resumed public hearing in the Federal Building, Mrs. Charles M. Brightwell, wife of the president of the Old Colony, was to testify regarding the $35,000 she is alleged to have withdrawn from the firm while it was doing business. That money was to have been put in a safety deposit vault.

Force Against Force, Says De Valera

Eamon De Valera, president of the Irish Republic, declared today to a correspondent of the Boston American that:

"As long as England is playing for hate from Ireland she will get hate.

"We shall never allow ourselves to be treated as a subject people.

"When England uses force in Ireland the reply will be force.

"We will strike when we can, even if it has to come down to individuals. Our men are not afraid to die.

"For every man we lose we shall keep and demand a just reckoning.

"Every Englishman knows he can have a genuine settlement of the Irish question, on the basis of justice, if he wants it.

"There will be no talk of settlement until the British Army of Occupation is withdrawn from Ireland."

The correspondent met the Irish President at his hotel, "en route."

'No Coalee, No Washee' for Chinaman

The "heathen Chinee" referred to by Bret Harte in his justly celebrated verse, was a model of childlike innocence and simplicity compared to the proprietor of a laundry in Somerville, according to enraged citizens of that city. On going to his shop on Summer street they were confronted with the following notice:

"Closed—Vacation. No coal—No coke—Gas costee too muchee. Back in three weeks."

Following the example set by other captains of industry, the proprietor has gone to the White Mountains.

1 DEAD, 10 HURT, IN UNIONIST-SINN FEIN BATTLE

BULLETIN.

London, Sept. 2.—The condition of Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, who is on a hunger strike, took a turn for the worse today. It was announced at Brixton jail that he was considerably weaker.

London, Sept. 2.—Terence MacSwiney's sister, a sobbing little woman in black, came from Brixton jail today and was immediately surrounded by press men.

"My brother," she said, "is entirely resigned. He has given up hope of living."

That the Lord Mayor of Cork is so low in vitality that even if the government orders his release he cannot be moved was the statement of the physician in charge of the jail infirmary.

This is the twenty-first day of MacSwiney's hunger strike. The hunger strike record in British prisons is twenty-two days.

By International News Service.

Belfast, Sept. 2.—A civilian was shot dead and ten other persons wounded in a night battle at Cliftonville, when Unionists attacked a number of houses occupied by Sinn Feiners.

The casualties at Cliftonville probably would have been much heavier but for the timely arrival of soldiers. Armed troops were rushed to the scene when firing developed and dispersed the fighters.

The government has decided to accept the offer of the Ulster Volunteers to take over control of Belfast and police the streets, according to a report which was called "groundless" at first, but later confirmed by officials.

It was pointed out that the government may use this as an excuse to release British troops for service in other parts of Ireland.

It is understood that there are about 30,000 Ulster Volunteers under arms. The organisation was originally formed to take the field against the Sinn Fein.

A gang of armed masked men broke into a farmhouse at Touranena, shot and killed the oldest boy of the family and a little later shot and killed a farmer as he answered the knock at his door.

Two grenades were hurled onto ships at Limerick. They exploded, but there were no casualties. The engineer of a train out of Cork was shot and killed by the military for refusing to obey orders. A military motor ambulance carrying a patient broke down near Athlone and was burned to cinders while the driver was telegraphing for a relief gang.

It was learned on August 21, 600 men of the police reserve mutinied, demanding that they be given a free hand to continue their reprisals. The commanding officer promised sympathetic hearing of the demand.

Toward dusk a body of men advanced on Shankill road. They carried revolvers. The military barred the way with machine guns and wounded several before the would-be invaders retired. In the Waring street area the sniping was particularly lively. Men on the way home from work were fired on. They hurried home, got rifles and returned to attack.

Wilson Is Asked to Act for MacSwiney

Washington, Sept. 2.—President Wilson had under advisement today a letter left at the White House by Frank P. Walsh requesting him to intervene to save the life of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork.

Mr. Walsh as chairman of the American Commission on Irish Independence asked that the President appeal either personally or officially to Lloyd George for the release of MacSwiney, who is starving himself to death in protest against British tyranny.

The letter follows:

"Honorable Terence McSwiney, the democratically elected mayor of one of Ireland's largest and most important municipalities, is confined in the Brixton jail in England for the commission of acts which are held by the free peoples of the world to be not only innocent but praiseworthy. He is dying of starvation and his attending physician asserts that, unless immediately released, his death will come within the next twelve hours.

ASKS DIRECT APPEAL.

"I have been requested by the organizations of American citizens of Irish blood, numbering millions in membership and sympathetic in affiliation to appeal to you to use your good offices to save his life.

"If you could see your way clear to make direct official or personal appeal to Mr. Lloyd George, we feel sure that this tragedy would be averted.

"We therefore beg of you to make this direct appeal, either officially or in the name of our common humanity."

The appeal to President Wilson followed a conference between Mr. Walsh and Secretary of State Colby. After that conference Walsh expressed confidence that Mr. Colby would see his way clear to appeal for MacSwiney's release.

Walsh quotes Secretary Colby as saying that while he realizes the difficulty of making a formal appeal, he would "endeavor to do something and do it quickly."

Secretary Colby declined to make a statement.

During the conference Walsh pointed out numerous precedents for such action, among them representations made by President Roosevelt against the Jewish pogroms in Russia. Walsh stated that MacSwiney had a brother and sister in America, both being American citizens.

King in Conflict With Cabinet Over MacSwiney

London, Sept. 2.—For the first time in the ten years of his reign King George is in a conflict with the Cabinet over a grave public question and has found himself completely unable to take an independent course of action.

He was first notified by his political secretary, Lord Stamfordham, that if he advised the release of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork from Brixton Prison, through the exercise of the royal prerogative, Premier Lloyd George would defer to the royal wish.

FORWARDS PARDON REQUEST.

Accordingly the King forwarded a request for a pardon to the Home Office but was then informed that the Cabinet was unanimous in deciding that the Mayor must be allowed to die if he continued to refuse food.

His Majesty was extremely annoyed at the official rejection of his exercise of clemency because he was personally convinced that the release of the Lord Mayor was the proper course.

He now has taken the unprecedented step of cancelling the customary invitations to the senior members of the Cabinet to stay with him at Balmoral Castle.

The King's effort to release MacSwiney has resulted in the arrival of a sheaf of letters and telegrams at Balmoral supporting the action and urging His Majesty not to hesitate to provoke the resignation of the Cabinet by peremptory action.

CARSONITES STRONG.

The uncompromising attitude of Premier Lloyd George is said to be due to the Carsonite element in the Cabinet, which was prepared to wreck the coalition rather than yield to the public clamor for the Mayor's release.

Sinn Fein has never countenanced a petition to the King, taking the position that the Republicans do not recognize the authority of the British constitutional system. Sinn Fein leaders sent a letter to the King stating this as their position. Soon thereafter the telegraph wires leading to Balmoral Castle were cut. They have since been repaired and are guarded by the police.

London, Sept. 2.—The secret code used by the British military authorities in Ireland is reported in possession of the Sinn Fein, according to a dispatch from Dublin today.

Sinn Feiners are said to have seized a copy of the code when they raided headquarters of the British air forces in Ireland at Baldonnel, near Dublin. A number of field glasses and service pistols were taken away by the raiders.

Troops Raid Sinn Feiners' Property in Dublin

Dublin, Sept. 2.—There was a burst of military activity here today. British troops made a number of raids in Sinn Fein-owned property.

Organize for Boycott on British Commerce

Striking longshoremen and other Irish sympathizers in Boston have organized a MacSwiney and Mannix Defence Organization, among the purposes of which, it was announced today, are the boycotting of British goods and British ships throughout America.

The organization demands the freedom of Archbishop Mannix from British espionage in London and the immediate release of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork.

A first meeting of the association in Amory Hall, East Boston, last night, was addressed by James H. Brennen, John P. McCarthy, John J. Lucy and Michael Berry.

The following temporary officers were chosen: Chairman, M. C. Hennessy; secretary, John J. Lucy; treasurer, John P. McCarthy; assistant treasurer, D. J. Leary.

HEARST THANKED BY ULSTERMEN

Campaigns for Suffrage and and Ireland and Against League Commended

Editor, American:

The Ulstermen's Association of Greater Boston send you the hearty congratulations of its entire membership for the successful fight the Hearst papers made in behalf of woman suffrage. We believe that woman has a right to take part in her country's politics, and we believe that she will be more sincere and will prove as intelligent if not more so than the male voters.

We call upon every lover of justice and every one who holds the honor of America and the great American principle of freedom sacred and dear to his heart to defeat the British League of Nations as aided and abetted by such organizations as the Loyal Coalition, which is one of the secret arms of the British empire that Geddes refers to.

Americans, beware of foul treachery within! Remember Washinton, Jefferson and Lincoln!

We ask that America as the exponent of liberty raise her voice in protest against the inhuman acts perpetrated against the Irish people by the English government and the Hunnish (England sprang from the Huns, the Jutes, the Angles and the Saxons) treatment of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork.

We also denounce as the disturbers of the world's peace such renegades as Lloyd George, Bonar Law and Sir Edward Carson and a few more who would plunge Ireland, yes, the whole world, into a sea of blood.

"PAPERS TRULY AMERICAN."

The Hearst papers have often exposed such men, have show no mercy to such vipers and have always been fearless and above board truly American papers for Americans, even when England tried to strangle them during the late war for the plain unvarnished truths that appeared in their columns.

England is trying to raise a religious issue in the cause of Ireland today, where none exists. We would like to ask any fairminded person no matter what his creed or race, why Bonar Law, who is a Scotch Canadian, and Sir Edward Carson, who is not an Ulsterman, should put themselves forward as the spokesmen of Ulster. There is only one answer—they do not represent Ulster but England. Why is it that in every Catholic home in the city of Belfast and the rest of Ulster are pictures of Robert Emmet, Wolf Tone, Henry Joy McCraken, Henry Grattan, Charles Stuart Parnell, and a host of other patriots who were all Protestants and leaders of the Irish people against the tyranny of England. Why is it that such Orangemen of Belfast—the Rev. Grattan Mythen and a host more of Protestant gentlemen are foremost in the fight for Ireland's freedom.

AN AMERICAN QUESTION.

The Ulstermen's Association of Greater Boston, founded thirty years ago and attached to other Ulster societies through the length and breadth of the United States, and whose membership is comprised of Catholics and Protestants, stands for brotherly love among all classes and creeds and loyalty to America first, last and always.

We believe that the Irish question is an American question. If not, why did we go to war to help England and free all oppressed races?

We maintain that Ireland has a bigger claim on American sympathy than any other nation in the world. What about McDonough, Barry, the O'Brien, Montgomery, Jackson and the hundreds of others who were Irish and of Irish blood who gave their all.

President De Valera of the Irish Republic, as the true spokesman of the Irish people, we send our heartfelt thanks to a real American gentleman, Admiral Benson, for his defence of American ideals.

We are not members of the so-called Ulster League of North America. We never heard of them until this year. With best wishes for the American's continued success.

'FASHION THEFT' LAID TO U. S.

French Government Asked to Ban Photographing of Parisian Models

By International News Service.

Paris, Sept. 2.—The Ministry of Interior is agitated over the photographing of pretty girl models for fashionable dressmaking firms at race tracks, on the beaches and in theatres. The question of morality does not enter into the matter, it is plain business.

Alleging that American and other foreign firms are stealing French ideas for gowns and hats through pictures, the Paris dressmakers' syndicate appealed to the minister of the interior for a law forbidding the photographing of girl fashionplates who are accustomed to mingle with crowds to advertise new styles.

The dressmakers asserted that the present law against the theft of designs was inadequate. The minister was inclined to believe that there was some justice in the complaint and promised to investigate. When the union of photographers heard of this, the members let out a roar that could be heard from Deauville to Monte Carlo, figuratively speaking.

They protested to the minister that it would kill their business if they were forbidden to photograph actresses and society women in their new gowns. The minister then had to promise an investigation from a new angle. The agitation developed last Sunday from a fist fight at the Chantilly races when two pretty models assisted by their escorts attacked a photographer for taking pictures of the new Fall gowns they were wearing.

AUTOIST DIES OF INJURY SUSTAINED IN CRASH

Pawtucket, R. I., Sept. 2.—George L. Girouard, forty-five, of No. 13 Mowry street, Central Falls, who was brought to Pawtucket Memorial Hospital last night following a collision between his automobile and a trolley car, died today as a result of his injuries. He leaves a wife and two children. Girouard was driving towards Pawtucket and the trolley car was headed in the opposite direction. According to witnesses, the motorist apparently was unable to get his machine out of the car tracks. The automobile was wrecked.

LYNN MAN GETS DEATH THREAT TIED TO STONE

A death threat, attached to a stone, landed at the feet of Antonio De Lucia as he was seated at a dining room table in his home at No. 68 Adams street, Lynn.

The message, thought to have been thrown through the window by children whom he had chased from his garden, read, "You had better keep out of this house or you will be blown up and killed. Your kids are no good and if you don't keep them in the yard you'll never see them again."

NEWBURYPORT CIDER FARM IS "NO NUISANCE"

Newburyport, Sept. 2.—In police court Bronaslaw Markienwicz was found not guilty of maintaining a liquor nuisance in Newbury. Officers of that town recently seized two barrels of cider on the defendant's farm, but the court ruled that they had not produced evidence enough to prove the existence of a nuisance. An order will be issued for the return of the cider.

SOLDIER OVERCOME BY CHLOROFORM IN CELL

Brockton, Sept. 2.—Held by the police here as a deserter from the army, Fred J. Mandeville, twenty years old, was found in his cell under the influence of chloroform. His handkerchief, saturated with the drug, was nearby. Officials are at a loss to know how he obtained the chloroform, as he had been searched. He is said to have enlisted from Brockton last Spring. He will be turned over to the army authorities.

British 'Logical' On MacSwiney

By GEORGE BERNARD SHAW.

Kenmare, County Terry, Sept. 2.—The government's course in the MacSwiney case is perfectly logical, but it is rather unfortunate that after being illogical with English prisoners for ten years the government should select an Irishman to begin its logic on and should excuse itself by the gravity of his crime when he has committed absolutely no crime at all except the crime of being born in Ireland.

COURT ACTION ON SUFFRAGE

Hannis Taylor Says It's Necessary to Make Amendment Constitutional

Washington, Sept. 2.—Fearing the question of woman's suffrage might yet involve the validity of the presidential election in November and in the bitterness of another Hayes-Tilden controversy imperil the cause of suffrage itself, Hannis Taylor, international authority on constitutional law, today came out strongly, urging immediate action in the courts to remove any suspicion of unconstitutionality from the acts leading to the proclamation of the 19th amendment by Secretary of State Colby.

Mr. Taylor is author of "The Origin and Growth of the English Constitution," "The Origin and Growth of the American Constitution," "Jurisdiction and Procedure of the Supreme Court," "The Science of Jurisprudence" and a number of other legal text books. The following is his opinion:

By HANNIS TAYLOR.

Written expressly for the International News Service.

What occurred in Tennessee Tuesday gives a double force to the conclusions stated in my first interview given this press association. Everybody knows that no action of a legislature can be legal or final until the process of reconsideration has been completed.

That process cannot be arrested by a Governor certifying prematurely; or by a Secretary of State acting prematurely. The Supreme Court has settled the fact that as a proclamation by a Secretary of State is purely an administerial act, it in no way binds the courts.

No one but an enemy of woman's suffrage will now venture to advise its advocates to stake their cause upon a palpably illegal device in the form of a snap judgment. A basic revolution in our constitutional system cannot be brought about in that way. Certainly a decision upon this important question should be had in the Court of Appeals of this district—a court of exceptional ability—before the elections in November.

VIRGINIAN ASKS MAYOR QUINN TO FIND HIM WIFE

In a letter to Mayor Quinn of Cambridge, a young man signing himself Charles E. Richardson of No. 2212 West avenue, Newport News, Virginia seeks the aid of the city executive in finding a wife whose home is in the University City.

The sender makes unusual stipulations in his letter. He says that the girl need not be good looking, wear fine clothes or be a possessor of wealth, in fact, he wants a working girl.

LONG SAYS COX MAY BE HEARD IN BOSTON

Long of Framingham, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, said while in Worcester that he has received positive assurances from the Democratic National Committee that Governor Cox will visit Massachusetts during the campaign, and will probably speak in Boston, Worcester and Springfield.

FIND CLEWS TO PONZI ASSETS

Woman "Investor" Pleads for Return of Her Money Without Interest

my $1000 and I will be satisfied. I do not want the interest."

An envelope found among the mass of papers bore the mark of an agent of the White Star Line at Naples, Italy. A search of the pile failed to reveal an accompanying letter.

One of the significant bits of paper brought to light was a sheet which had been crumpled up, and on which nearly twenty sums of money had been written, all totalling $131,180. On the back of the slip had been written the words "received of agents," "receiving teller" and daily receipts, together with several illegible words. The entries on this slip ran from $180 to $23,000.

INVITED TO BANK OUTING.

The friendly relationship between Ponzi and officials of the Hanover Trust Company was disclosed in another letter, dated July 24, and signed by Treasurer William S. McNary, urging the promoter to attend the outing of the officers and employes of the bank on July 28. This was a period when Ponzi was cutting the wildcat swath in his sensational "financial" career.

A touch of irony was added by another letter, under date of August 2, from the American Flying Club, Inc., of No. 11 East Thirty-eight street, New York, dunning him for an initiation fee and other debts amounting to $38.50.

Memoranda and letter heads from wine merchants in New York regarding Chianti and Italian wines were also found. Among the rubbish corrugated pastboard cartons, such as used to enclose wine bottles, were unearthed.

MYSTERY SURROUNDS REMOVAL.

Considerable mystery surrounds the removal of the papers from Ponzi's home. The promoter was in jail ten days when the farmer said he received instructions to cart them away. Why they were taken to the farm building, rather than publicly dumped, if they were of no value, has not been disclosed. The farmer states that he has received only $7.50 of the $10 he was promised to remove the papers.

Part of the receivers' time was today occupied in carefully examining the translations made of the letters seized in Ponzi's Lexington home yesterday. Facts of vital importance to the case are believed to have been found.

The receivers report that $1,250 more has been added to the Ponzi assets through receipt of a letter from an "investor," who said that it was "profit" made in the Ponzi scheme. The officials refused to disclose the name of the writer.

A public hearing was to have been held at the State House this afternoon by the special commission appointed to investigate the sale of fraudulent securities to receive suggestions as to the law which will be drawn up for the protection of the public. Persons engaged in the sale of securities were invited to attend, together with any others who wished to express their views on the subject.

Denies Lawrence Police Shield Ponzi Investors

Lawrence, Sept. 2.—Charges that the police department, in conducting the Ponzi probe here, was shielding certain persons of prominence in withholding the names of investors, were publicly denied in a statement issued by City Marshal Timothy J. O'Brien.

"It must be remembered," said the City Marshal, "that everybody who invested in the Ponzi scheme has not become a criminal. The humiliation of these people, in some instances, is most pathetic. Why should we publish their names and add to their humiliation? We will publish the names of everybody who criminally induced these unfortunate people to invest and will present the names of the criminals to the grand jury, and then follow them to a sure conviction."

Although, in the mind of the court, the Commonwealth had established its case against Frederick C. McCraw, agent for the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company, who was tried on four counts of larceny, the case was further continued until September 8 to allow an auditor of the Old Colony to appear on the witness stand.

NEW YORK'S MOVING DAY IS HALTED BY STRIKE

New York, Sept. 2.—Just as this big town had buckled the last strap and jammed down the last lid and dashed to the curb to whistle up a moving van, word was sent out by the Teamsters' Union that such moving as was accomplished upon the first part of this first Autumn month would be done via the back and ankle route. For not only have teamsters declared a strike, but van drivers, chauffeurs and packers as well have walked out and New York's semi-annual moving day is all bound round with trouble.

Dube's body has been recovered but the remains of Gelinas are still missing.

Demands Ballot, But Won't Tell Age

Portland, Me., Sept. 2.—If the members of the board of registration who are writing down the names of new voters thought they were finally going to get the answer to the question, "How old is Ann?"—to say nothing of Mabel, Clarice and Theodosia—they failed to consider Mrs. F. Ernest Holman, prominent suffragist, who has started a fuss over the matter that promises to go straight to the highest court.

At the first session of the board yesterday, Mrs. Holman declined to give her age. She was refused registration.

Mrs. Holman was accompanied by her attorneys, Harry E. Nixon and Fred S. Jordan, who will at once petition the courts for a writ of mandamus directing the board to register their client.

"I do not mind letting the world know my own age," Mrs. Holman said today, "but there are thousands of working women who do not want their ages made a matter of public record. There are employers in this land who have a prejudice against the working woman who has reached the age of forty.

"It ought to be so arranged that the woman who is prepared to take oath that she is 'twenty-one or over' could be registered without further interrogation along that line."

Vose Small Grand

Words cannot tell the story of the tone, material and artistic worth of this beautiful instrument. It must be seen and heard to be appreciated. It must be compared with others to get its true value.

This is a small grand without looking small, what we mean is this—its lines are so cleverly drawn that it has the appearance of a larger piano and its tone volume is amazingly generous for its size.

This instrument is the perfect result of nearly three-quarters of a century devoted to the development of the piano by the House of Vose.

This model is for the music or living room of limited floor space. It gives the artistic touch to the home..........TERMS

COOLIDGE REFUSED TO AID ENGLISH MOVE AT PROVINCETOWN

MAYOR PETERS ALSO 'TURNED DOWN' SULGRAVE PLAN

Provincetown, Sept. 2.—The recent Provincetown celebration, dominated by the Sulgrave Institution, was nothing but a flash in the pan of the Pan-English movement and was frowned upon from the moment of its inception by Governor Coolidge, it became known today.

The Sulgrave Institution, which spread tracts seeking to educate Cape Codders to the advantage of a huge Anglo-Saxon dominance of the world, was also frowned upon by the Pilgrim Tercentenary Commission appointed by the State of which Louis K. Liggett is chairman.

The original Sulgrave plan, in the opinion of State officials, was to use the celebrations at Provincetown and Plymouth as a money raising scheme, the funds to be devoted to the maintenance of Sulgrave Manor in England, erroneously reputed to be the ancestral home of George Washington's family.

John A. Stewart, a clever publicity man and promoter, sought to have Governor Coolidge appoint a committee of representative citizens who would supervise contributions for both celebrations. Other celebrations were planned for New Orleans and other large cities.

TURNED DOWN BY PETERS.

Mayor Peters was approached to appoint a committee of wealthy Bostonians, but after consultation with State officials refused. So did Governor Marcus Holcomb of Connecticut.

Investigation by State officials convinced them that, though the Sulgrave Institution backers might be well-meaning, their plans called for too much overhead expense with too little results for the Pilgrim celebration. In other words, the maintenance of Sulgrave Manor in England was held of more importance than the local celebrations in honor of the landing of the Pilgrims.

But the promoters of the recent Provincetown celebration found plenty of Anglophiles among the Summer artists colony and among other wealthy people with a leaning for publicity to accumulate money enough to stage the pageant.

But that they will be prevented from thrusting the Sulgrave Institution and its published ideals upon the Provincetown and Plymouth celebrations is a foregone conclusion, say State officials.

The State and Federal governments have appropriated $550,000 for the Plymouth celebration and $150,000 for the celebration at Provincetown. State officials say that not one penny of this money will ever be spent in furthering the maintenance of Sulgrave Manor or any other plans forwarded by the Sulgrave Institution.

Furthermore, State officials warn well-intentioned public spirited citizens against the necessity of Pilgrim contributions except through the officially designated committees, of which Mr. Liggett is chairman for Plymouth and Thomas C. Thacher for the Provincetown affair.

Plans "for building up a Christian civilization in all countries under the League of Nations," or what local citizens believe to be a real Pan-England movement are revealed in Sulgrave Review, No. 3, copies of which, left here by promoters of the tercentenary celebration, show that the latter was planned at a meeting in London even before American committees had been formed for the purpose.

BOOSTS LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

The review has a significant section, describing meetings of the free churches and associated organizations in England, where resolutions were adopted that at 8 a. m. on the morning of the tercentenary of the sailing of the Mayflower, Anglo-Saxons throughout the world be invited to assemble with some ceremony, and with some common invocation, for a blessing upon the League of Nations, and their resolve to rededicate themselves to the work of establishing peace and good will among men.

The plan provides further that the aim to develop under the League be suggested at all Mayflower meetings, such as the union of Christian churches and missionary societies in Britain and America.

On page thirty-six of the review appears the following: "At a meeting in London in April and May, 1919, the following outline preliminary program for 1920 celebration was approved by British and American official committees in joint session."

LIST OF CELEBRATIONS.

At the end of the list appears this: "September 2-3, 1920. Celebration in America, at Provincetown, scene of the Mayflower compact, followed by reception and celebration in New York, and tour of America.

"October 5-12. Celebration and ceremonies in Virginia. Program to be announced later.

"November 9-11. Celebration throughout English-speaking world in honor of the Mayflower compact, one of the foundation stones of free American institutions.

"November 24, 1920. Universal Thanksgiving day.

"December 18-20, 1920. Universal celebration, including memorial church service of arrival of the Pilgrim fathers at New Plymouth.

"Popular celebration pageants—Inauguration of monuments, university functions, establishment of lectures, scholarships, etc., memorial, dramatic and operatic performances, memorial publications; international sports, yacht races, airplane motor boat, distance races, polo, tennis, golf, etc.; musical jubilee concerts, band concerts, etc. Mayors of towns and cities of England and America to be invited to establish relations with places of similar names."

Elsewhere the announcement is made in the pamphlet: "The exercises Monday, Dec. 20, not only in the public schools, but in public places everywhere, will terminate the international celebration as arranged by the Sulgrave Institution, Anglo-American Society and Leyden Committee. A plan will also be formulated for participation in any way that may be desirable in the official celebration in Plymouth and Boston in 1921."

MANY PROMINENT NAMES.

Names of international prominence appear on the official roster of the Sulgrave. Among the Massachusetts men named are Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard; R. T. Crane, Jr., W. Murray Crane, Professor Albert Bushnell Hart, Augustus Hemenway, Sinclair Kennedy, Henry Cabot Lodge, Larz Anderson, Louis K. Liggett, Mrs. William C. Loring, W. A. Gallup and Robert Treat Paine.

Ex-Governor Eugene N. Foss is named as the Massachusetts sponsor for the organization, while among the patrons and founders are the names of Augustus Hemenway, Alexander Cochran, Fred F. Ayer, Henry Denison Burnham, William W. Whitman and Frederick C. Fletcher of Boston.

J. P. Morgan, Otto Kahn, James Speyer, George J. Gould, Frederick S. Fish, Henry Watterson and William H. Taft are other names on the list of active members.

Hay, Cans and Brooms Fail to Camouflage Rhode Island Whiskey Cargo

Providence, Sept. 2.—Two tons of hay, a dozen brooms, 15 galvanized wash tubs and a couple of hundred rolls of tissue paper, used for camouflage purposes, failed to fool prohibition agents, who stopped an auto truck between Westerly and Washington, R. I., and uncovered 2,400 pints of whiskey, said to be bonded quality.

The driver and a man who accompanied him were arrested and held on charges of transporting and possessing liquor without a Federal permit. The defendants gave the following names and addresses: Moris Grappel, No. 1760 Prospect street and Joseph Stark, No. 200 Bristol street, both of Brooklyn, New York.

NEGRO SHOT BY POLICEMAN

Everett Man Runs Amuck and Is Captured When Police Surround Home

Henry Williams, colored, living at No. 75 Beacham street, South Everett, ran amuck with a revolver near the Everett terminal early today and was wounded in a pistol duel with Patrolman Charles E. H. Small. Williams was finally taken into custody after the Everett police had surrounded his home and forced an entrance.

During a running pistol fight along Broadway, Patrolman Small and Williams each exchanged four shots, one of them taking effect in the latter's head.

Small stopped Williams on Bow street. He held a handkerchief to his eye. When questioned, Williams stated that he had been struck by Patrick Flaherty and that he was going to kill his assailant. He started to run through Langdon street onto Broadway after making the remark.

Flaherty was standing at Broadway and Thorndike street and Williams opened fire. He then turned the pistol on Small who was giving chase. Williams escaped after the exchange of shots.

Six officers from the Everett station surrounded the house while Patrolmen Elmer Small and Taylor forced an entrance. Williams escaped over the roof to an adjoining house, the police in pursuit. He was finally cornered in a locked room.

Williams calmly told the police that he would have killed Small had he not exhausted his ammunition. "I would have bored you sure if I had known you was gong to get me," he said. He was carrying a 38-calibre automatic revolver. A charge of assault with intent to kill has been made against him.

Ipswich Child Drowned

Ipswich, Sept. 2.—The body of Charles Tyler, aged five, who had been the object of an all-night search by police, firemen and citizens, was found in a creek near his home.

Reports Husband Gone; Also Her Sister

Miss Mary Ferlito, missing East Boston girl, and Charles Riminishenza, missing since July 28 and for whom his wife has asked the police to conduct a search.

Police of Boston and nearby cities are searching for Charles Riminishenza, also known as Charles Rimini, No. 79 Lubec street, East Boston, who has been missing since July 28, leaving a wife and two minor children. Miss Mary Ferlito, aged seventeen, a sister of the wife, is also missing.

Mrs. Riminishenza told the police that her husband took about $2,000 with him and that her sister had several hundred dollars worth of jewelry when she left her home, No. 15 Pitt street, West End, on the same day.

He is said to have left a note to the wife, leaving the key to a fruit store he operated on Porter and Orleans streets, East Boston, and telling her to make her home there. The wife's mother, Mrs. Maggie Ferlito, is said to be broken hearted over the disappearance of her daughter and son-in-law.

SUGAR DEALERS FACE RUIN

Wholesaler Testifies Contracts Were Made With Refining Company 'Under Pressure'

Boston wholesale sugar dealers are facing ruin as the result of being forced to accept contracts with the American Sugar Refining Company under pressure, according to Winthrop C. Adams, prominent local wholesaler and president of the Boston Wholesale Grocers' Association, who was the principal witness at the sugar inquiry conducted by Attorney General Allen.

One-half the sugar sold in Boston today, he said, is sold at a loss. Many dealers loaded with sugar purchased from the refineries at 22½ cents a pound would be willing to sell at 15 cents, he declared.

Adams stated that dealers could purchase all the sugar they needed today at 7 cents under the price they are being forced to pay as the result of the contracts made "under pressure."

Appeals for relief by New England wholesalers, he said, were refused them by the American corporation on two occasions. He declared that officials of this company warned the dealers that if the contracts at twenty-two and one-half cents were not signed the wholesalers need not look to the refinery for any supply during an expected shortage during the Fall.

The same attitude, he testified, was also taken by the Revere Sugar Refining Company. Both companies supply 90 per cent. of the New England demand, he added.

Adams denied that the ordinary annual shortage in the Fall of the year, especially this year, could be a reason for the wholesalers making contracts to protect their customers. Figures given in the bulletin of the sugar company indicated a shortage.

'FLASH' ROGERS, BOXER, DEAD

Lightweight Pugilist Suffocated by Gas in Wellington Street Lodging House

Manuel A. Rogers, twenty-seven years old, of New Bedford, a lightweight pugilist known in boxing circles as "Flash," was found dead on the floor of his room at No. 21 Wellington street, with illuminating gas pouring from a bracket jet. An autopsy will be performed to determine whether there was any connection between his death and his last appearance in the ring.

According to the police, the smell of gas from Rogers' room aroused the fears of Mrs. Helen Crane, proprietor of the lodging house, and Mrs. Crane called upon James Morrissey, another lodger, who forced an entrance.

The body of "Flash" was found on the floor near the window, evidence, according to his friends, that the young man's death was not premeditated, and that he was seeking relief when he was overcome. From other sources the police were said to have received suggestions that Rogers may have been despondent owing to domestic troubles, or that a recent knockout had so affected him that he did not want to live.

By order of Assistant Medical Examiner Brickley, the body was conveyed to the City Hospital Morgue. Assistant Medical Examiner Waters, it was announced, will perform the autopsy.

ELEVATED EMPLOYE DIES OF INJURIES

William J. Collins of No. 15 James street, Somerville, died at the Haymarket Relief Hospital from injuries received at the Sullivan Square terminal repair shop of the Boston Elevated, where he was employed. Collins was working on a car and it is thought the lifting jack slipped and struck him in the stomach.

Girl Dancers to Hide Faces With Masks

New York, Sept. 2.—Realism will be the feature of stage dancing this season because of the new mask vogue.

W. T. Benda, the artist, explained it by denying that mask-wearing by classic or interpretive dancers is reviving of any period. He declared:

"Instead it is establishing consistency. Does not a dance by an Oriental girl lose its appeal if we look upon the face of a pretty American maiden, wearing Oriental costume, dancing to Oriental music, yet with features completely at variance with her makeup and surroundings?

"The mask is to correct the one false note in the performance of a company which features many dances. There will be Spanish dancers with Spanish faces, Russians with Russian faces, and so on.

"One famous little dancer will wear first a mask of a 'Silly Girl,' one of a 'Peacock Girl' with headpiece of peacock feathers painted in oil, another of a simple 'Grotesque' and a fourth of an Arabian girl."

Mr. Benda told of a masquerade ball at which, before the dancers unmasked, it was thought all the men were women and all the women men. He said it is quite easy to make masks to conceal sex and prophesied their popularity for private functions this Winter.

LAUCK WARNS OF HIGHER PRICES

Suggests Two Possible Means of Relief By Congressional Action

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 2.—High prices have not yet reached their peak and the cost of living instead of declining will shoot upward as Winter approaches, according to W. Jett Lauck, consulting economist for the United Mine Workers of America and the railroad unions, and recognized as one of America's foremost authorities on economic problems.

He sees no relief from high prices unless Congress does two things:

Restores wartime control over the railroads, coal, food and clothing necessaries.

Enacts an industrial code to establish industrial peace.

"Unless living conditions are ameliorated," he warned today, "widespread industrial conflict may result before proper and safe action can be taken which will afford a basis of procedure for stabilizing industry, accelerating production and guaranteeing industrial peace.

"The greatest menace with which the country is confronted today, not only industrially but politically and socially as well, arises from the pressure of living costs on the great mass of wage workers in the basic industries.

"During the hearing of the wage case of the railroad unions last May I told the railroad labor board that a family of five required a minimum annual income of $2,500 to live in any sort of comfort. That statement no longer holds. At the present scale of prices a family of five needs more than $2,700 a year to maintain itself with minimum comfort."

"The price of coal," Lauck added, "should be reduced at least $1.55 per ton as a result of the wage award of the Anthracite Coal Commission, but any talk that coal prices will drop is deception. We may expect exorbitant coal prices next Winter. Labor trouble in the coal fields and the inability of the railroads to provide enough cars to move coal indicate this even if we did not have the profiteering of the coal operators and dealers to assure us of it. This shameless profiteering cannot be stopped except by government control of fuel exercised through a strong fuel administration."

CHILDREN TELL OF MURDER

Played Pianola as Nott's Body Was Packed Into Trunk

Bridgeport, Ct., Sept. 2.—"We played the pianola while ma and Elwood Wade put papa's dead body into the trunk."

This statement was made in the course of the convulsive and tearful testimony of Rose and Julia Nott, aged eleven and twelve, respectively, daughters of George E. Nott who was brutally murdered here Sunday.

"Mother and father had a quarrel," said the little ones. "We saw them wrestling in the hallway. Pa pushed mother against the sharp edge of a doorway. 'If you don't go you will be sorry,' said father, and went upstairs.

"A short time later Elwood Wade came in through the kitchen door. Mother and he went upstairs. Then we saw another man come running downstairs with a hatchet in his hand. He went out of the door, but left the hatchet on the ice.

"When he had left pa came reeling down from the upper stair case and tumbled in a heap on the lower landing. He was bleeding.

TRIED TO STOP WADE.

"'You needn't do this,' cried father, as he lay there. Ma pulled Wade by the sleeve and begged him not to hurt father any more.

"Wade said: 'I will kill him.' Wade had a knife and cut father under the arm. Ma again asked him to stop.

"Father said: 'I was going to get him but he got me.'

"They told us to go into the next room while they put the body in a trunk. Wade asked mother to help him clean up the blood. She did. Wade told us to play the pianola. We played several selections and didn't see any of them until 9 o'clock when they took out the trunk."

This testimony was given at the hearing being held by Coroner Phelan.

WADE DESCRIBES KILLING.

Wade and John B. Johnson, both of whom are under arrest, maintained an attitude of bravado throughout the hearing. Mrs. Nott will be called upon to testify when she is able to do so.

Young Wade, called upon to testify, said:

"I beat him and I shot him, but he seemed to get no weaker. He had me by the throat and was giving me a battle. I finally called to Mrs. Nott to get me a knife. With this knife I jabbed Nott until he finally lay still. We then packed his body into the trunk and washed away the bloodstains."

Before the murder took place Mrs. Nott had employed private detectives to watch her husband in order to get evidence for a divorce. Nott in turn was watching his wife for the same purpose.

BOSTON LEADS IN CARE OF FRENCH ORPHANS

The Boston committee of the Fatherless Children of France holds the record of the country in renewals and re-adoptions in the four months' report received from Paris. Boston is credited with 2,379 renewals and re-adoptions and the Massachusetts total is 3,055. New York State shows 2,781, and of this New York city has 2,242. The total for the country is 24,805, and in all nearly 300,000 French orphans are being cared for out of American generosity. An appeal for $5,000,000 for renewals was recently made, and of that amount about $3,500,000 has been raised. Allan Forbes, No. 33 State street, is treasurer of the Boston committee.

SEES RETURN OF 5-CENT FARE

Bound to Come With Drop in Prices and Wages, Says Philadelphia Operator

Philadelphia, Sept. 2.—Thomas E. Mitten, president of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, today predicted the return in the near future of the five-cent fare to all street railway companies of the country.

It will take place along with the drop in prices and wages, which Mitten says is bound to come.

Mitten expressed confidence in the ability of his company to obtain a higher revenue by means of a fare that would make the man who gets the most pay the most. He swept aside the failure of the zone fare system in other cities and predicted that the fare method here would set an example for the country.

"We have built up a 85-cent-an-hour wage without raising our fares," he said. "Other cities, when they get back to the five-cent fare, their wages based on a fare higher than five cents will have to drop correspondingly."

WISH COMES TRUE; DIES WITH HUSBAND

Muncie, Ind., Sept. 2.—Surrounded by consoling friends, dressed for the funeral of her husband, which was to have been held in the village church thirty minutes later, and just after she had expressed regret that her wish to die with him had not come true, Mrs. Rebecca Besser, of Royerton, sat back in her chair and died before aid could be summoned.

A messenger was sent to the church and the funeral of Frederick F. Besser, the husband, was postponed and the double funeral of the man and woman was held twenty-four hours later.

Worcester, Sept. 2.—Searching a pushcart propelled by Aaron Frank of No. 243 Millbury street, Federal officers found a 10-gallon jug of alcohol. Aaron was arrested, charged with violating the liquor laws, and will be given a hearing tomorrow before United States Commissioner Frank Dresser.

Exit Somerville's Big 'Murder Mystery'

The great "Trull street murder mystery," that has been agitating the police and certain residents of Somerville for some time, has been cleared up.

The baffling problem was solved by Captain E. A. Carter of the Somerville department after his men had dug up the cellar of a vacant house in search of a body which was not there.

What for a time appeared to be evidence of a perfectly good murder degenerated into a bit of drainage unpleasantness magnified by female curiosity.

The "mystery" had its inception when women residents of Trull street notified Patrolman Frank Roach that an odor was issuing from an unoccupied house on that street. They declared the circumstances to be worthy of investigation, inasmuch as the house had last been occupied three years ago. At that time the young woman who lived there dropped out of sight. The residence was then closed with the furniture left in it.

Patrolman Roach notified Captain Carter, who recalled that twenty-five years ago a man had disappeared on Dane street, Somerville, under similar circumstances. Later his body was found in the cellar.

Securing the assistance of Lieutenant Kennedy and Sergeant Blair, together with a number of shovels, Captain Carter went to the house after first obtaining a key from the real estate agent.

On entering the house the detective instincts of the officers were first aroused by the discovery of a basin containing some sort of congealed liquid, possibly blood. The party then rushed into the cellar, where, in one corner they found a mound containing fragments of a woman's dress. They began to dig frenziedly, but their ardor cooled considerably when after some time they uncovered a pile of rags and ashes.

Returning to the upper portion of the house, Captain Carter found letters containing the names of persons, apparently friends of the missing woman.

Getting into telephone communication with them, the police captain learned that the woman in question was alive and well, and was telephone operator in a Boston hotel.

The odor came from the sewer.

SHARP CLASH AT WARE HEARING

Attorney Charges Threats of Prosecution Were Contained in Letters and Handbills

Developments of a sensational nature followed the appearance of Henry C. Hendrick, a South Boston restaurant keeper, on the witness stand in the Federal Court hearing of charges of using the mails to defraud, brought against George L. Ware, a Congress street broker. The hearing was resumed today.

Attorney Robert Ryder's fire was drawn when United States Assistant District Attorney Shea objected to the line of questioning Ryder was putting to William McMahon, a New York post office clerk, who had invested $41 with Ware.

His question as to whether the witness knew certain Boston men was ordered withdrawn by Commissioner Hayes who is conducting the proceedings to establish whether or not there is probable cause in the government's complaint.

"This case has been kicking around the streets for months. It has been in the office of the district attorney of Suffolk County and we have been threatened with criminal proceedings even before we ever heard of it coming before the United States Court. We have been threatened by handbills and letters," snapped Attorney Ryder.

TO HEAR CASE ON MERITS.

"This case has come here through the properly appointed officers of the government. It has come here through proper channels. It will be heard on its merits. If the defendant is innocent we will all be glad. If he is guilty then he should be punished as the law prescribes," answered Commissioner Hayes.

Testimony was offered to show that the only oil producing property held by the Massachusetts Mutual Divide trustees, and upon which they based their hope for future success, was an option and possible ownership of the Gates Oil Company of Texas, operating a well producing 20,000 barrels a day.

SOLD WARE STOCK.

Witnesses testified that the Massachusetts Mutual Divide trustees had absorbed the shares of the Nevada Mutual Divide, the original stock offered by Ware.

M. P. Hutchings, a broker and trustee of the ill-starred South Texas Trust, said he was one of three trustees of that company. The others are J. King Duffy and Joseph Butler of New York.

Hutchings said that he sold Ware 400 shares of the Texas Trust stock for $3800. He said that his company does not now own or control any land. He testified they had drilled down 3,700 feet when the drill stem stuck in the hole and was lost.

He admitted that he had never notified the stockholders that the lease they held on the property had been cancelled.

Hendrick, the South Boston restaurant keeper, testified he had invested over $5,000 with the Ware Company and had as yet received no dividends. He said that in many conversations with Ware he had been told that the Mutual Divide had oil wells and would soon be earning big money and soon pay dividends.

WRANGEL YIELDS FRENCH CLAIMS

Turns Over Russian Railroads, Surplus Grains and One-Fourth of Coal

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.
Boston American Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, Sept. 2.—The official Bolshevist news agency Bosta gives the following details of the alleged promises made and obligations assumed by General Wrangel to France in consideration of that country's recognition of him as the de facto government in Russia, according to a dispatch received here from Stockholm.

Wrangel recognizes all of the monetary claims of France upon Russia with prior rights. After the fall of the Soviet government France will combine all of the loans she has made to Russia into one new loan to run for thirty-five years with interest at 6½ per cent, and the annual redempton to be guaranteed as follows:

France gets the use of and the income from the Russian railways for a period of ten years. France gets the rights to the customs duties of ports of the Black Sea and the Sea of Azov. All of the surplus grains in the Ukraine and Kuban regions and one-fourth of all the coal mined in the Den region will go to France for ten years. France advisors will be installed in the Russian ministries of finance, trade, commerce and industry.

Russia is to reinstate conscriptive military service. France is to recognize and put in motion the Russian arms and munition works.

Russia and France are to conclude a twenty-year offensive and defensive alliance. The agreement is to define the policy of France toward the border States, as well as toward Russia.

GIRL STOWED AWAY 10 DAYS; FIREMAN HELD

New York, Sept. 2.—When the steamer Philadelphia arrived at Ellis Island immigration officials found Jean Tucker, an English girl, hidden in the narrow hold space between the bowplates. She was suffering privations to which she was subjected during a ten-day trip.

An inquiry into the case led to the arrest of Edward Manning, a fireman aboard the ship. James Fallon, another fireman, is being held as a material witness. The girl fainted when taken from the hold of the ship and since has been under the care of a physician.

ALABAMA MINERS ORDERED TO STRIKE

Needed "Bracer" to Wed Cambridge Girl

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 2.—Liquor as a comforter for men about to venture into matrimony is not permitted in Kansas City.

Robert M. Maher, of Brooklyn, N. Y., was arrested as he left the Wyandotte county court house with his bride, who was Mrs. Katherine McDonald of Cambridge, Mass., who had been working in one of the local hotels as a waitress, until Maher persuaded her to change her name once more.

"I bought the liquor for a 'bracer,'" Maher explained. "I was a little nervous." Because of the pleading of his bride, who was a raven haired beauty, Maher was released, but the one drink left in the bottle was confiscated.

RUSSIA DENIES POLE VICTORY

Red Communique Says Advance on Northern Front Has Been Repulsed

London, Sept. 2.—The Russians and the Poles issued flatly contradictory communiques today regarding the fighting on the northern front.

The Polish claimed an unresisted advance with the capture of much equipment.

The Russians declared that the Polish attempt at an offensive in several places were repulsed and that the fight was continuing.

The situation in Galicia, according to the Polish report, remains unchanged. It is not mentioned by the Russians. In this area the Russians, under General Budenny, have been reported as attacking.

President Pilsudski of Poland is quoted as declaring that it will be impossible to stop on the line advocated by the Entente and America. He wants to go ahead until the Bolshevists are crushed.

FRENCH SEE U. S. AS SEA LORD

Writer Admits America in 1923 Will Supplant England as Greatest Naval Power

Washington, Sept. 2.—In 1923 the American naval fleet will be the most powerful in the world, according to a statement in the French journal, Sea and Shore, made public by the Navy Department.

In 1923 the United States will have in her new fleet twenty-two heavy battleships and ten light cruisers. The British navy will, it is stated, have no ships that can compare in power with them.

The figures given by the French publication were obtained, it is stated, from the First Lord of the British Admiralty.

"Mr. Daniels," the paper states, "foreseeing the possible entry of the United States into the European conflict, prepared an extensive program and succeeded in having it adopted by Congress.

"The results are that the United States will have a superb fleet of capital ships having a displacement of 1,500,000 tons, 16 dreadnoughts equipped with 16-inch guns, using projectiles not to be found in any other navy."

The article does not give the units for the British navy in 1923, but states that 52 American ships will be superior to anything Great Britain now has of expects to have at that time.

Washington, Sept. 2.—President Wilson is about to institute a "back porch" campaign in behalf of the Democratic candidate for President, according to plans now being discussed by administration leaders.

FUTILE TO APPLY FOR 1921 AUTO PLATES NOW

Although the rush season of 1920 as regards issuing of automobile license plates is hardly over, the registry of motor vehicles at the State House is being overwhelmed with applications for 1921 plates. Register Frank A. Goodwin said that making application now for next year's plates is futile and results only in hindering the regular work of the department.

The registrar said his department is not allowed to accept applications or license fees for 1921 plates at the present time and cannot now consider requests for specific numbers.

MINERS FRAME NEW DEMANDS

60,000 Coal Workers and 56 Collieres Idle in Pennsylvania Strike

By Universal Service.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 2.—At least 60,000 workers in the anthracite region were idle today following a strike vote taken by 300 delegates representing sixty-five locals of the United Mine Workers of America.

The delegates voted to take a "vacation" until the operators accede to their demands. No less than fifty-six collieries are tied up and many others are only 50 per cent. efficient, according to reports of insurgent leaders.

In Hazleton the scale committee sat to frame new demands for presentation at the session of the joint scale committee in Scranton today.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Officials of the United Mine Workers, pledged to accept the anthracite coal commission's award, will be expected to deal with the Wilkesbarre miners who have "gone on vacation" in defiance of President Wilson. This statement was made by an administration official today:

"There is nothing more for the President to do or say," he said.

Perfumed Rooms New Fad in London

By Universal Service.

London, Sept. 2.—Perfumed rooms are a new fad of London hostesses. Each room is given a distinctive perfume, the color of the wall paper corresponding with the color of the flower from which the perfume is distilled.

A lavender bedroom is toned to a pale mauve, and the one that smells of mignonette is colored a greenish yellow.

Guests are alloted rooms which, in the hostess' opinion, correspond to their own temperament and color scheme.

New England Committee Sends Protest to Interstate Commerce Commission

A protest has been entered by Borden Covel, chairman of New England coal committee, against the order of the Interstate Commerce committee, suspending for five days the service order giving priority to New England tidewater shipments of bituminous coal.

In a telegram to Clyde B. Aitchison of the commission, Mr. Covel urges reconsideration at once of the action taken "without giving the New England coal committee any opportunity to be heard," and declares that the alleged "congestion" and the statement that sufficient vessels are not at the ports or expected to arrive to move the New England coal "is not supported by facts."

SINN FEINERS NOT AFRAID TO DIE---DE VALERA

Their talk began with a brief discussion of recent reports that Britain has decided to give Egypt her freedom. President de Valera scoffed at the story. If Egyptian "independence" is granted, he said, it would be somewhat after this form:

"You will be independent, but you must not do so and so, and so and so, and so and so, and when all that Egypt must not do is subtracted from nominal independence not much would be left.

"Ireland, too, England might say could be free but the British army of occupation must remain. Ireland, too, might be allowed to conduct her foreign affairs, but her conduct of them must be exactly as will suit Great Britain.

"This method of deceiving by words is an old one with the British. I do not believe the Egyptians will be deceived by it and certainly the Irish people will not be deceived in any such manner.

"We have for well over 700 years lived side by side with the British, and their ways are not strange to us.

"We know the British government's policy always has been imperialistic, that exploitation of other lands always has been England's purpose and that she has been influenced always by self-interest, not generosity or moral principles.

"In the case of Egypt let us await the full report of any agreement that may be made and then watch England's moves."

WANT INDEPENDENCE.

"If England has granted a measure of freedom to Egypt what effect do you think it will have in the East as regards Britain's colonies?" Mr. De Valera was asked.

"I doubt whether anything but complete, unconditional independence will satisfy the Egyptian nationalists," Ireland's Sinn Fein leader replied.

"Temporarily it may strengthen England's hand in Egypt, enabling her to carry on at this difficult time. If England retains veto power on all issues affecting Great Britain's interests, safeguarding the Suez Canal, and so forth, besides retaining economic advantages, that is all her imperial policy demands for the present. But it will prove nothing but a temporary expedient, for imperialism is doomed. India, and England's newer Eastern annexations, as well as Ireland, will have to be reckoned with."

President de Valera was asked if there is any likelihood of an "armistice" between Sinn Fein Ireland and the British government.

"Never!" he replied, his eyes snapping. "There can be no talk of settlement until the British army of occupation is withdrawn."

"Then the present terrors in Ireland, with the British armed forces on one side and the forces of retaliation of the Irish Republic on the other, will go on, you think?"

WILL GET HATE.

"As long as England is playing for hate from Ireland she will get her hate," President de Valera said, measuring his words. "The Irish people have time after time shown their desire for amity. We aim for mutual understanding and good will between the two peoples, on the basis of equality of right, but we shall never allow ourselves to be treated as a subject people, and we shall never permit ourselves willingly to be exploited for the benefit of English imperialism.

"When England uses force in Ireland, the reply will be force.

"When a citizen or soldier of the Irish nation has his rights outraged, and his freedom taken from him for no other reason than that he loves his country, do you think there will not be adequate reprisals?

"You must understand that the Irish people are engaged in a struggle for their national freedom. There is in effect a state of war between Ireland and Britain."

"But you are hopelessly outclassed by warships, heavy guns, tanks and aeroplanes," the correspondent pointed out. "How can you hope to win out against such mechanical and numerical superiority?"

CAUSE RIGHT AND JUST.

"But the British will have to contend not merely with the Irish people, but with the millions of Indians and others who are similarly determined that they will have their freedom!" exclaimed the Irish patriot.

"Our cause is right and just, and we have the opinion of mankind with us. Our methods of warfare will not be those which the enemy would choose.

"The enemy can mass his battalions. We will strike when we can, even if it has to come to individuals. Our men, individually, are not afraid to die. And for every man we lose we shall keep and demand a just reckoning."

President De Valera was reminded that Premier Lloyd George, after a fashion, had made unofficial overtures to Sinn Fein, in the hope of obtaining an Irish settlement on a dominion basis.

"Just the usual playing to the galleries," said President De Valera, depreciatingly. "No one who knows Lloyd George would take him seriously when he talks about Ireland.

"Every Englishman knows he can have a settlement—a genuine settlement—of the Irish question on the basis of justice if he wants it. Recognition of Ireland's independence is all that is necessary, and nothing less will ever be of any use."

"LIVE AND LET LIVE."

"Do you look for any appreciable help from the British labor men and trades-unionists in gaining Irish independence?" Mr. De Valera was asked.

"There may be some hope that the English laboring men will yet realize that if they are to be freed from the burdens of future wars they must give up imperialistic notions and come down to the simple maxim of 'live and let live,'" President de Valera replied. "But for indications of that I look rather to deeds than to words."

President De Valera refused to give an opinion as to which way the Americans of Irish blood would vote in the Presidential election this year.

"I want to express no opinion on that," he said. "But I feel certain of this: That, seeing that they are American citizens who made sacrifices during the war that all nations might be free, they will be influenced in their choice not a little by the question as to whether American sacrifices have not been rendered in vain by the denial to Ireland of the principle for which many of their sons gave up their lives."

BARRETT RESIGNED TO PROVIDE FOR HIS OLD AGE

Washington, Sept. 2.—John Barrett, whose resignation as director general of the Pan-American Union went into effect today, announced that he quit so that he could accumulate modest competence for his old age. Barrett will become general counselor and special adviser in international relations.

Dr. L. S. Rowe, his successor, was formerly chief of the Division of Latin-American Affairs of the State Department.

TYPHUS ALARMS U. S. OFFICIALS

Immigrants Must Shed Beards and Shave Heads Before Leaving Europe

Washington, Sept. 2.— Alarmed over the large number of typhus cases that have found their way to America, particularly in New York, from affected districts abroad, the United States public health authorities, it is learned, have established examination stations at Danzig, Bremen, Bordeaux, Marseilles, Barcelona, Lisbon, Naples, Salonica, Copenhagen and other European ports.

Between fifteen and twenty fully developed cases of typhus were discovered aboard three ships that recently arrived in New York. Two were from Danzig and one from a French port. It was stated by officials of the United States Public Health Service, that all were immediately taken to the detention hospital at Hoffman's Island.

Every prospective immigrant at the European ports mentioned above is now subject to fumigation and chemical bath treatment aimed to kill the body louse, which is said to be the sole agent of typhus transmission, before he is permitted to board a ship for America.

Orders recently have been issued that immigrants from Poland and other States where Jews or Slavs and others who customarily wear long hair and beards embark, shall be compelled to shave their faces and crop their hair as an additional precaution.

10,000 WITNESS OPEN AIR OPERA

"Aida" Given Fine Performance With Gigantic Chorus at Braves Field

Before an audience of 10,000 persons Verdi's "Aida" was given an impressive performance in the open air at Braves Field last night. Leading artists of the opera stage were heard in the principal roles, while a great chorus and immense orchestra added to the effectiveness of the production.

Thunderous applause greeted the close of each act. The staging of the spectacle was marvelously well done and the entire production scored a big success.

GORGEOUS COSTUMES.

The opera itself presented unlimited opportunity for elaborate costuming and the master hand of the stage managers was seen in the gorgeous attire of the 2,000 members of the chorus, the largest ever assembled for an opera in this city.

No attempt was made to make the stage setting lavish. There were temples and pyramids, which served to create the necessary illusion, and that was all.

The audience was representative of music-loving Boston, and included many patrons of the regular opera performances, with a large outpouring of students of music.

The cast comprised Marie Rappold, soprano; Orville Harrold, tenor; Cyrena Van Gordon, contralto; Clarence Whitehill, baritone, and Pietro di Biasi and Natalo Cervic, basses. Marionne Gobbout and Antonio Guarino appeared in minor roles. Emil Mollenhauer was the conductor.

SOLOISTS WELL KNOWN.

The soloists were all singers of reputation, and they were as much at home as if on the opera house stage.

The handling of the big chorus revealed the value of efficient training and rehearsal. There was literally a singing army, backed by carefully drilled marchers. In the great pageant of triumph, with the waving of palms and the blowing of trumpets, a most imposing picture was presented.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITTAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth.

Yet now, at an age over 66, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

At a time when I had become discouraged at trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asseverated would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly.

Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade.

I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotalko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved. Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotalko.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized. Shampoos (which contain alkalis) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotalko contains those elements of nature which give new vitality to the scalp and hair.

FIVE PRIZES IN AMERICAN RUN

High Grade Bicycles to Be Given Away to the Best Riders

Here's more good news for the cyclists of Greater Boston who are going to take part in the Boston American's big bicycle run from Copley square to Chestnut Hill reservoir on Sunday afternoon, September 12. Five high grade bicycles valued at $70 each are to be given away free to persons participating in the outing. They will be awarded for meritorious riding during the six miles' run as follows:

To the boy under fifteen years who shows the best form in riding, a bicycle will be awarded.

Another bicycle will be presented to the girl under fifteen, who is picked by the judges upon the same basis.

A third machine will be given to the male rider over fifteen whose form is considered the best.

Another bicycle will be awarded to the girl or woman over fifteen years who passes the same test most successfully.

A fifth bicycle will be awarded to the boy or girl under eighteen years who gives the best exhibition of trick riding at the reservoir in the presence of the assembled throng.

FIRMS DONATE PRIZES.

The bicycles to be awarded are among the best known makes on the market. All of them will be equipped with Corbin coaster brakes and Vitalic tires.

The bicycles have been donated as follows:

A 1920 model Henderson bicycle by General Motor Sales Company, No. 793 Boylston street; 1920 model Indian bicycle, by George N. Holden, No. 188 Massachusetts avenue; 1920 mode Raycycle bicycle, by Hub Cycle Company, Nos. 19-27 Portland street; 1920 model New England bicycle, by Myerow Brothers, No. 258 Columbus avenue; 1920 model Harley-Davidson bicycle, by W. J. Walker Company, No. 163½ Massachusetts avenue.

The judges will comprise men well known in the cycling world. Their names will be announced later.

OLD TIMERS ENTER.

The American's bicycle run is certain to be a big success judging from the talk among those who ride.

A large number have already entered, including such old timers as Nat Butler and his brother Tom, who have world-wide reputations as riders; Jimmy Moran, Billy Saunders, Watson Coleman, Fred C. Graves, Peter Berlo, Jim Lowry, Eddie Raphael, Jim Keltie, Jack Fecitt, "Lady" Callahan, Frank Mayo, Louis Kleh, the first person to ride a bicycle on the rear wheel and former vaudeville partner of Fred St. Onge, who is to direct the run. Hosts of others whose names are familiar to the cyclists of by-gone days will be there.

The bicycle editor of the American wishes to impress readers with the fact that this run is for everybody and is NOT to be a race.

It is strictly a social ride and the pace set by St. Onge will be slow so that even the youngest rider will have no difficulty in keeping up with him.

RACING IS FORBIDDEN.

St. Onge will be official pace-maker riding his old high wheel or "ordinary" as it was known thirty-five years ago, before the present bicycle came into being.

All the old-timers will follow directly behind the leader. Perfect formation will be insisted upon throughout the run and road rules will be strictly observed.

Racing will be strictly forbidden. Motorcycle policemen who accompany the riders will see to it that any persons with racing proclivities are eliminated from the line. This run is promoted by the American solely for the purpose of health and pleasure.

Among those who have entered their names for the run are C. J. "Josh" Young of No. 350 Pearl street, Cambridge, former 24-hour champion on the high wheel, George Newcomb, No. 20 Alexander avenue, Medford, John J. McCarthy, No. 38 Church street, Dorchester, Clarence Mullett, No. 61 Heard street, Chelsea, Samuel Bell, No. 68 Heard street, Chelsea, Abraham Cohen, No. 28 Savin street, Roxbury, James Leahan, No. 11½ Tainter street, Medford, Arthur B. Chartier, No. 12 Julian street, Roxbury.

DON'T WAIT; REGISTER NOW.

Frank Gibbs of No. 100 Quincy street, Winthrop, one of the riders whose name was a by-word among cyclists in 1880, and E. S. Freeman, a Winthrop assessor, are expected to participate on their high wheels which they still use.

John Kaplan of No. 449 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury, in entering his name wrote: "In my opinion the event is one of the most suitable to promote health and pleasure and I would urge all those who have bicycles to participate."

Don't wait until the last minute. Register now, so that we'll know what quantity of refreshments will be required. CRETIC EXPECTED HERE FROM ITALY MONDAY

Thronged with passengers, the White Star line steamship Cretic is now speeding toward Boston from Genoa, Naples and Ponta Delgada and is expected to berth at Commonwealth pier in South Boston, next Monday afternoon. The same procedure will be followed at quarantine on the Cretic's arrival as in the case of the Canopic last week. The steerage passengers will be transferred to Gallops Island for bathing, and after the remainder of those on board have been examined by port physicians the ship will proceed up to her dock.

B. & A. EMPLOYE IS HURT ON MOTORCYCLE

Springfield, Sept. 2.—Bertram Clapp, forty-three, of No. 14 Summit street, a towerman for the Boston & Albany railroad, was seriously injured when he lost control of his motorcycle and crashed into a hydrant at Worthington and Spring streets. St. Onge Shows Trick

Fred St. Onge, director of the Boston American bicycle run from Copley square to Chestnut Hill reservoir, Sunday, September 12, shows the boys and girls of Greater Boston how to ride forward while facing backward. This is one of the many tricks performed by Mr. St. Onge in his former vaudeville act, witnessed by millions of people all over the world. To do this stunt face backward and place left leg over frame on pedal, lifting body by handle bar until right foot meets left pedal.

In tomorrow's American St. Onge will show a standing still trick.

SALARIES KEEP LEAGUE ALIVE

Cri de Paris Reveals High-Priced List of Officials as Reason for Prolonging It

Paris, Sept. 2.—One reason why the League of Nations will be kept alive, as long as it is humanly possible, is given by the French weekly, Cri de Paris, which publishes a list of salaries paid officials of the league.

The secretary-general is paid $50,000 per year. Two under secretaries draw $10,000 yearly. The private secretary of the chief secretary is paid $25,000.

The director of each section—and there are a dozen or so—receive from $10,000 to $12,000, while the members of the sections are paid $3,000 to $6,000 yearly.

The librarian-in-chief gets along comfortably on $5,000 each twelve months, while the director of the International Bureau of Labor—Albert Thomas—takes $30,000.

Other salaries are: Chief of the diplomatic division, $3,000; chief of the service of inquiries into Sovietism, $6,000; a sub-chief in the scientific division, $5,000.

Typewriters and stenographers are paid what, at present exchange, works out at about $30 per week. Altogether there are 237 employes, including a large number of women. Whenever the league decides on a meeting in Italy or Spain or Switzerland, practically the whole lot have to be moved in special trains, with their expenses paid.

"As long as those salaries are paid, the best of all reasons exists why the League of Nations should not die," remarks the Cri de Paris.

SIX INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Haverhill Men Near Death Following Rear-End Collision; One Driver Held

Haverhill, Sept. 2.—As the result of an auto collision here, Eugene [illegible] of No. 11 Oak street is dying at the [illegible] Hospital; [illegible] Gifford, [illegible] ex-service man, is suffering from internal injuries and five other persons sustained minor injuries.

No hope is held out for the recovery of Penn, who has two broken legs and is suffering from internal injuries. Gifford's condition is serious.

An automobile driven by W. A. James of Amesbury road, and in which Penn was riding, crashed into the rear end of an automobile driven by Gifford and owned by Saville Johnson, No. 35 Elm Park road, Groveland, wrecking both machines and ending in the arrest of James on a charge of drunkenness and operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

He pleaded not guilty to both charges in the Central District Court before Judge John J. Winn and was held in $1,000 bail for trial September 8. A manslaughter charge may be preferred against him if Penn dies, the police say.

James' machine was going sixty miles an hour, according to the police, and did not stop for two hundred feet after the collision. Johnson received minor injuries. Samuel Lasky, riding with James and Penn, was hurt and taken to a doctor's office. James was cut on the face and hands.

Back Achy? Feel "All Worn Out?"

ARE you burdened from morning to night with a dull, nagging backache? Does any little exertion leave you "all worn-out"? Does it seem sometimes as if you just can't keep going? You know then, there is something wrong. So why not find out what it is and correct it? Very likely, it's your kidneys. Modern life with its hurry and worry, and lack of rest and sleep, throws a heavy strain upon the kidneys. The kidneys slow up and that tired, depressed feeling and constant backache, are but natural results. You may have headaches and dizzy spells, too, and annoying kidney irregularities. Don't wait for dropsy, gravel, or dangerous Bright's disease. Determine to be well and stay well. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

These are Boston Cases:

Tremont Street

W. S. Ripley, Sr., composer of music, 228 Tremont Street, says: "I began to have a dull, tired ache in the small of my back. It hurt me to bend and I couldn't turn in bed without sharp pains catching my back. Mornings I felt unrefreshed and lacked ambition. The kidney secretions deposited a sediment. If I stooped to pick up anything I got dizzy and my sight blurred. After I had used half a box of Doan's Kidney Pills I began to feel better and about two and one-half boxes cured me."

Soudan Street (Dorchester)

Mrs. M. A. Theroux, 42 Soudan St., Dorchester, says: "I suffered from a severe attack of kidney trouble and became run down generally. My back ached continually and it was difficult for me to keep going to do my housework. To sweep the floor, caused my back to ache so I thought it would break, and frequent, dizzy headaches made me miserable. The action of my kidneys was irregular, too. Doan's Kidney Pills entirely cured me. My back is now well and strong and my kidneys are in fine shape."

Saratoga Street (East Boston)

Patrick J. Hickey, 440 Saratoga St., East Boston, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills proved a good remedy to me when my kidneys were out of order. My back ached and I had pains in the region of my kidneys. I was stiff and lame mornings and whenever I stooped over, the pains took me across my kidneys and I could hardly straighten up. The action of my kidneys wasn't right, either. After a short use of Doan's Kidney Pills, the soreness and aching left my back and my kidneys were regulated."

Winthrop Street (East Boston)

Mrs. E. H. Leighton, 11 Winthrop St., East Boston, says: "I value Doan's Kidney Pills very highly. I gave a public statement a few years ago recommending Doan's and am glad to endorse them again at this time. Whenever I feel that my kidneys need strengthening I use Doan's Kidney Pills and feel better after taking them." (Statement given July 24, 1914.)

On February 6, 1919, Mrs. Leighton added: "Doan's Kidney Pills have certainly proven their value to me and I can't say too much for them. I know they are perfectly reliable and will do what is claimed for them."

NO package of Doan's Kidney Pills is genuine unless it bears the maple-leaf trade-mark and the signature—"Jas. Doan."

Fifth Street (South Boston)

Edward L. Kelley, 438 Fifth St., South Boston, says: "I suffered for a long time with kidney trouble. When I got home at night after working, I could hardly walk. My back ached so I thought it would break. I couldn't rest at night and mornings my back was so lame I could hardly go. The action of my kidneys was irregular, too. I started the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and I was soon feeling like myself again. My back was made strong and well and my kidneys were put in good order."

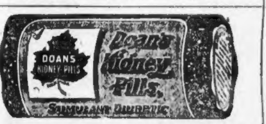
"Every Picture Tells a Story"



COX CHIEF FAILS TO PROVE "SLUSH FUND" CHARGES

SHOWS ONLY SMALL GIFTS TO REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN

that the Republican committee is collecting a campaign fund of $15,000,000.

SHOWS ONLY SMALL PLEDGES.

Summarized, the Cox-Marsh "evidence," as given Wednesday, consists of pledges and photographs of pledges proving that many wealthy men and many rich corporations have subscribed amounts averaging less than $1,000 to obtain the circulation of a Republican propaganda book published by an individual not connected with the National Committee.

Marsh presented the investigating committee with the spectacle of a poor, but honest, Democratic party.

He decided that the "Republican committee budget of $3,000,000 was not excessive for the Republicans," but humbly pointed out that "to be very well satisfied if we Democrats can raise a campaign fund of $1,200,000."

The session was stirred with excitement when Marsh announced that the originals of the photographs he offered as evidence were "in the hands of either Governor Cox or the Department of Justice."

At this the three Republican members of the committee eyed each other significantly.

REED SAYS LAW BROKE.

The sinister suggestion of mention of the "Department of Justice" was given further importance when Senator Reed, the independent Democratic member of the committee, made this promise:

"I will undertake to make an indictment against these men (who had signed pledges for the book's distribution) stick anywhere."

Senator Reed insisted that those who had signed the pledges were guilty of violation of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, and read sections of the act.

"Why," asked Senator Spencer, Republican, of Marsh, "Did you not produce this so-called evidence before, if you felt it proved law violation?"

"We considered it very useful as a campaign document. We can probably use it for both (for prosecution as well as political) purposes."

Senator Kenyon, Republican, suggested:

"But if it was an indictible offence, they should be indicted."

"Of course," Marsh agreed.

SHOW DONORS' RECEIPTS.

Treasurer Marsh was liberally assisted in "getting across" Democratic campaign propaganda by Senator Reed, who took temporary possession of Marsh's evidence and frequently quit asking questions to make statements himself.

The bulk of Marsh's exhibits were in the form of receipts by the Albany Evening Journal to persons and corporations contributing to the circulation of "Republicanism, 1920," issued by William Barnes, publisher of the Journal.

Marsh charged that the contributions really were intended as direct gifts to Republican propaganda. He insisted that Federal and State laws had been violated, since under both statute systems campaign contributions by corporations are prohibited.

Senator Spencer injected himself into the examination long enough to force from Mr. Marsh the admission that he had seen no campaign pledges or receipts which did not carry a line concerning Mr. Barnes' book and its plan for general circulation.

CLINGS TO "CRIME" CHARGE.

The Senator took advantage of this admission to put into the record the statement that corporations are not prohibited from contributing toward the distribution of any book published by an individual.

Marsh tenaciously clung to his "crime" charge, however, since Chairman Will Hays had written a letter of commendation of the book and since some members of the national committee had subscribed to its circulation.

Senator Reed read off the names of those who had signed pledges to support the book's distribution. He frequently paused to connect these names with business interests.

He read as follows:

"Samuel S. Holt, No. 1790 Broadway, $500.

READS ROCKEFELLER'S NAME.

"John D. Rockefeller, Jr., by Starr J. Murphy, No. 26 Broadway, $1,000.

"H. T. Sinclair, $1,000; John D. Rockefeller, by Starr J. Murphy, $1,500; W. R. Cole, No. 49 Wall street, $1,000; Jacob Ruppert, No. 1639 Third avenue, $1,000; E. W. Rice, Jr., No. 120 Broadway, $1,000.

"C. E. Danforth, No. 5 Nassau street, $1,000; Clarence H. MacKay, No. 253 Broadway, $1,000; C. M. Warner, No. 79 Wall street, $1,000; Walter C. Teagle——

Marsh cut in:

"He is president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey."

Senator Reed continued:

"Yes—No. 26 Broadway, New York, $1,000; L. F. Loree, No. 32 Nassau street, $2,000. He is president of the Hudson Coal Company and former president of the Rock Island Railroad; John McE. Bowman, Hotel Biltmore, $5,000.

GIVES NOTABLE LIST.

Marsh interrupted:

"He is managing director of a syndicate of hotels, the Commodore and the Biltmore and the Belmont."

Senator Reed went on:

"J. L. Livermore, No. 111 Broadway, $1,000; Edwin J. Berwind, No. 1 Broadway, $1,000; W. L. Anger, Paterson, N. J., $1,000; Dunlap L. Merrill, No. 22 Wall street, $1,000; A. Monell, Tuxedo Park, N. J., $1,000 (he is connected with the metal interests; I think he is the same Mr. Monell who had to do with financing the Wood campaign); S. L. Van Zandt, Marinther, Del., $1,000."

Skillfully directed questions failed to elicit the slightest admission from Chairman White that he possessed even knowledge of evidence concerning Governor Cox's "slush" fund charge.

Senator Spencer led the questioning in this wise:

ADMITS NO EVIDENCE.

Q.—Do you know of any sinister financial or industrial influences which are trying to make a continuance of profiteering possible by their contribution to the Republican party? A.—I have, of course, read the Governor's speech in Pittsburgh, and through long personal and political relations with him I have always found him to be able to prove what he charged, and that is the only source of information I have in regard to it.

Q.—That is, so far as you know, yourself, you could not give us any evidence of any sinister financial and industrial influences? A.—If you want a statement in regard to evidence, no, I have no evidence.

Q.—Can you give us any indication as to where any such evidence might be obtained? A.—Yes, from the Governor of the State of Ohio.

Q.—You have no evidence? A.—No.

Q.—You don't know where any such evidence is unless the Governor has it? A.—I am not prepared to say that I know it now, no.

Pressed further for the slightest evidence of Republican corruption, White had recourse to the "so-called Barnes book."

He said there were two books, but later qualified this by adding that one of the books was the list of prominent persons who had subscribed $1,000 each toward the dissemination of Republican propaganda in the other book.

UPHOLDS "UNCLE SAM."

Asked again concerning the story, "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge," Mr. White said he had considered sending it out as newspaper "boiler plate" in the interest of "the Democratic party and world peace."

Senator Kenyon, reverting to the official Barnes year book, asked:

Q.—Now, you think that is more sinister than circulating through the papers a propaganda in favor of the League of Nations, such as this "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge," and having it paid for by a particular political party, and having the man who reads it know nothing about who pays for it? A.—I don't apologize for wanting to let the people read "Uncle Sam of Freedom Ridge." The editor of the paper, Senator, is the judge. The man who reads that paper looks to the editor.

Q.—Couldn't that go in papers where the editor was absolutely opposing the League of Nations? A.—If the editor wanted to put it in.

"Thus far," said White, "the Democrats have set aside only $100,000 for their speaking campaign in their proposed budget of $2,000,000. Out of the speakers' appropriation will have to come the expense of Governor Cox's special train."

Q.—Won't that come pretty near pointed for the purpose of conducting the campaign. I think it is entirely costing $100,000 to start with? A.—No.

NO PROOF OF COX CHARGE.

Q.—You have no evidence to show large contributions to the Republican campaign fund for any sinister purposes nor from any industries for the purpose of securing a hold on the government to "use the bayonet in labor disputes?" A.—No.

Q.—Have you one particle of evidence to sustain the charges that Governor Cox made in his speeches? A.—None whatever.

Q.—Do you say that Governor Cox has such information? A.—I believe he has.

Q.—Do you believe that Governor Cox, if called before this committee, could present that evidence? A.—I would say so.

White was asked concerning a reported meeting in New York Monday night at which Governor Cox, W. D. Jamieson and others were present. It is about Jamieson that the report of $10,000,000 Democratic campaign fund has arisen. White said he knew nothing of such a meeting.

He said he had no criticism to offer of the Republican plan to solicit campaign contributions.

White was next interrogated concerning "Bill" Edwards, collector of Internal Revenue at New York, by Senator Edge:

Q.—Has he anything whatever to do with the regulations so far as the enforcement of that act are concerned? A.—I don't believe he has.

THINKS MONEY COULD WIN.

Q.—Do you think it is possible for the Presidency of the United States to be bought by the use of money, corruptly? A.—My judgment is that on a close election it would be true that money could buy it—that is, change the verdict of the people.

Q.—You believe enough American citizens, the electorate of America, men or women, could be actually bought by the use of money corruptly? A.—As a general proposition, no. But I say that on a close fight in a congressional district, I have seen that done.

Q.—Do you frankly believe as a business man as one American citizen of strong position, that it is the intention of the Republican National Committee to collect money and use it corruptly in buying votes to control the presidential election of the United States?

Senator Reed interrupted to say:

"I submit that the only person qualified as an expert on that would be a member of the Republican organization. If the witness were to answer that he did believe it, what would be the force and effect of it? The purpose of the question is manifestly to put Mr. White in the position of swearing that he believes that the Republican committee is corrupt. No man likes to do that. I submit that the question is improper. It is outside of the sphere of any legitimate examination."

INSISTS ON ANSWER.

Senator Edge replied:

"A gentleman nominated and running for the highest office in the country, the presidency of the United States, has directly charged in speech after speech, and in statements in the papers practically to that effect.

"Now the chairman of the Democratic National Committee must represent his campaign. He was appropriate for us to ask that man who has charge of the details of the campaign the direct question."

Senator Edge then resumed:

Q.—Do you know of your own knowledge whether in the last three or four weeks—you have been chairman during that time—telegrams have been sent to bankers or others asking for hurried assistance? A.—I know that Treasurer Marsh did send out some telegrams to friends of his to get some money in, but who they were I do not know. I suppose the treasurer has a list.

Europe's Strife Betrays League, Says Senator

By SENATOR JOSEPH I. FRANCE, OF MARYLAND.

Recent events in Europe have demonstrated how dangerous the League of Nations really is. If we were now a member of the League we would be compelled under the terms of the covenant to raise armies to send to Europe for defense of Polish territory against Russian invasion.

Under Article X we would have obligated ourselves to defend the territory of another member nation, even though that member nation might have been the aggressor in bringing on the war.

Poland invaded Russia and attempted to annex large portions of territory which had belonged from time immemorial to the old empire. Yet when Russia retaliates by invading Polish territory we would, under the terms of the treaty, be obliged to defend Poland with the blood of our boys and with our treasure, against the consequences of her own unjustifiable action.

The men were later arrested in the car at Harvard and Washington streets, Dorchester. They gave their names as Warren J. Malone, eighteen years old, of Barker street, Chelsea, Samuel Cohen, twenty years old, Walnut street, Chelsea, and Abraham Ovitz, twenty-two years old, Vale street, Roxbury. In the car were found several hundred dollars' worth of clothing and jewelry.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK FOR BUSINESS

Federal Reserve Board Reports Steady Readjustment on a Firm Basis

Washington, Sept. 2.—An unusually optimistic view of general business and financial conditions in the United States is taken in the review of the month of August issued by the Federal Reserve Board.

The report shows that there was a steady readjustment during the month, and the prediction is made that the "transition period" is nearing a close and that general improvement of the situation is in sight.

A summary made by the board of general conditions follows:

"In manufacturing districts Federal Reserve agents report dullness of business, accompanied by unusual reaction and hesitation on the part of middlemen and dealers. This is the result of reaction among consumers who have refused to pay excessive prices, and of some tendency to unemployment in various directions, due to the letting down of demand."

GOOD CROP PROSPECTS.

In the agricultural regions, the promising crop prospects have given a much more hopeful turn to affairs and have tended to minimize the broader questions of price adjustment, money rates and industrial unrest. Prices still show a tendency to fall, and for the month of August, the board's index number of wholesale prices has shown a reduction of seven points.

Reports by districts follow:

Boston—Business conditions generally have been characterized by "dullness to a degree rather more than usual," a fact which is assigned to the "widespread and undoubtedly heavy liquidation on the part of merchants" with the result of cancellation of orders and "almost universal curtailment of production" by establishments engaged in producing wearing apparel. Retail merchants show great caution.

LIMIT OF EXPANSION.

New York—It is found that "the period from July 1st to August 20th has been one of shifting credit, but with no substantial change in the volume of bank loans." The number of banks borrowing from the Federal Reserve Bank has decreased from 380 early last November, when the discount rate was raised, to 313 on August 1 of this year. "Manufacturers and merchants have at last realized that the period of constant expansion has about reached the limit of its possibilities."

Atlanta—Improvement in crop prospects, which was so strong a factor during July, has been somewhat offset by reaction in August. Prices are moving downward. Retailers report an increase of 16.3 per cent. in net sales. On the whole the position is hopeful.

Chicago—Caution rules in business. Retailers have found limits in the popular purchasing power and business is "slowing up a little," with the net result of "a waiting attitude." "Dearth of liquid capital" is largely responsible for the situation.

NEED TO MOVE GOODS.

Kansas City—Business men "see no cause for serious apprehension on account of price adjustment, money tightness or industrial unrest." They have produced this year the largest all-round crops of food products in history and believe that improvement of transportation and the rapid movement of the goods to the consumer is the urgent need of the case.

Dallas—Favorable factors include "further improvement in the condition of crops and ranges, increase in volume of wholesale and retail trade; in building activity; in farm granaries for the storage of wheat awaiting shipment, and improved movement and supply of freight cars." As against these desirable factors there is noted "excessive rains in the cotton belt."

CHELSEA NIGHT CARS GIVEN NEW ROUTE

Because of the many protests received, the plan of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company to discontinue all-night service on the Washington avenue line in Chelsea has been changed.

It is announced that the all-night cars on the Melrose-Malden line will be rerouted, so that the cars will leave Chelsea square by way of Washington avenue instead of by way of Everett avenue, and the reverse, in substitute for the car service formerly given between Washington avenue and Chelsea square.

HYDE PARK RECEPTION FOR SPEAKER WARNER

EXPECT BURRELL WILL FIGHT

Reply to Request for Withdrawal Looked for Today; Now Has 3 Opponents

State Treasurer Fred J. Burrell, having read in the morning papers a copy of the letter he is to receive from the Republican State Committee asking him to withdraw, is expected to announce today that he is in the fight to stay.

Burrell's name will appear on the primary ballot next Tuesday, and were he inclined to withdraw, the name will be in front of the voters, anyway, when they enter the polling places.

Burrell has already refused to have anything to do with the Republican State Committee. In reply to a questionnaire asking him to compare the business of his private advertising agency for the first seven months of 1919 with a similar period of 1920, when he has been in charge of the State Treasury, he said that he would rely upon the voters to decide the merits of his case.

WILL FIGHT HIS ENEMIES.

He has already announced his intention of "going to the mat" with his adversaries.

The following letter, signed by Secretary Louis Pfeiffer of the Republican State Committee, was sent to Burrell:

"In view of the situation and the feeling that exists among Republicans of the State, the State Committee suggests that, in the interest of the Republican party of Massachusetts, you withdraw from the contest for the State Treasurership as a candidate on the Republican ticket."

Chairman Frank B. Hall announced that the sixteen members of the committee who attended the session voted unanimously in favor of the proposal to Burrell to withdraw and this course was approved in letters received from twenty other committeemen.

WORK FOR JACKSON.

Hall said that while the Republican State Committee, as such, will not participate in the primary, at least thirty-eight of the members will work at the polls as individuals in behalf of the "sticker" candidate, James Jackson of Westwood.

At least two other candidates will run on stickers. Frederick N. Kerr of Winchester, defeated by Burrell for the nomination last year, and James Hay of Melrose, are sending out pasters to their friends.

George H. Ellis' statement that "the response to the Jackson candidacy is exceeding all expectations," indicates that a lot of Republican tongues will "taste the mucilage" on Tuesday.

State Auditor Cook announced that the audit of Burrell's accounts, ordered by the finance committee of the Governor's Council, would be ready for submission to the Council today. Cook will probably send in a mass of figures without comment by himself. Whether the finance committee will meet to digest the audit before primary day has not been announced.

BOSTON PLAYER MAY WIN TITLE IN NATIONAL TENNIS MATCH

WILLIAMS TO MEET JOHNSTON

Big Effort Today When Former Champion Plays Present Titleholder

Forest Hills, L. I., Sept. 2.—William M. Johnston, national tennis singles champion, faced his hardest test of the present national tournament at the West Side Tennis club here today when he met Richard Norris Williams 2nd of Boston, twice winner of the championship.

Williams yesterday defeated Willis Davis with apparent ease, while Johnston was forced to the utmost to bring down Nathaniel W. Niles, the Boston veteran.

Williams has gone through the tournament to the fourth round with a hard match to win every day, while Johnston has had easier opponents. This, it is contended, has placed Williams on edge for the big effort today.

The other two Davis cup players, William T. Tilden 2nd and Charles S Garland, are still in the running.

Garland plays Watson M. Washburn, the New Yorker, who has displayed excellent tennis throughout this tournament.

Tilden has a harder match on his hands, his opponent being Vincent Richards, the youngster from Yonkers, N. Y.

Be a Good Loser

NEWS from Cincinnati indicates that the Reds are viewing the prospect of losing the National League pennant with ill grace.

They are quarreling, and whining, and blaming the umpires, and resorting to other time worn subterfuges and excuses of the loser.

It will land them nowhere, except in the contempt of the baseball public. Next to a good winner, the world loves a good loser. The man with the alibi for defeat is regarded as a joke if he has an equal chance with the winner.

The Reds were popular victors both in the National League and the World's Series last year. They had their chance to repeat this season. They still have a chance. But they must play ball.

They began the season chesty and overconfident after a Winter of squabbling over terms with their employers. They have only themselves to blame if they lose, and their mental attitude is not going to help them in the hard drive through September.

No man can make a winning fight if he feels in his own mind that everybody is giving him the worst of it. No man can put up a strong contest if he goes about it sulky and discouraged and looking for an excuse for his own shortcomings.

A great asset in a battle is cheerfulness. A tremendous liability is a feeling of anger and resentment. The moment a man shows he is disgruntled over defeat, or the possibility of defeat, that moment he loses whatever sympathy the onlookers might have had for him.

The same spirit that prompts a happy winner should also make a good loser.

BIG FIELD OUT IN MYOPIA FOURSOMES

Hamilton, Sept. 2.—J. B. Russell and F. I. Emery teed off against J. Overall and Is B. Hussey in the first match of the invitation foursome at the Myopia Club. One hundred and two golfers in all took part in the play, which is scheduled to continue through Saturday.

C. A. C. to Be Dark

Bob McKirdy announces there will be no show at the Commercial A. C. this week, as he was unable to secure a suitable card. The est End club will resume operations next week.

PARADISE'S HOMER WINS FOR CORNETS

A home run smash by Paradise in the tenth inning after two men were out decided a bristling contest, 1 to 0, for the Cornets over the Lake City A. A. at Little River playground, Lynn.

Quincy Bouts Off

There will be no bouts at the Coliseum A. C. of Quincy tonight. Brooklyn Battling Nelson, who was to have met Johnny Alecks of Philadelphia, reported he would be unable to go through with the match at this time. Rather than put on an inferior substitute, Matchmaker Goodwin called off the show.

Do You Like Porterhouse Steak?

Probably you do. It is generally considered the choicest cut. It is also, unfortunately, the scarcest.

Nearly one-half of the live animal is not meat at all. It consists of hide, oils, bones, etc., which have a low value compared with meat.

A live steer weighing 1000 lbs. yields only about 55% or 550 lbs. of meat.

Of this 550 lbs., only about 8% or . . . . . . 44 lbs. is porterhouse

This means that only about 4 per cent of the live weight of the animal goes into this cut.

But less than half the animals which come to market are high grade, corn fed cattle, from which the choice porterhouse steaks you like must come.

Sirloin, ribs, round, chuck, flanks, etc. make up the greater part of the dressed animal. Chucks alone amount to over one-fifth. Although palatable and nutritious when properly cooked, these cuts cannot bring the price of the finer steaks.

Naturally, these rare and popular steaks have to bring higher prices to enable the dealer to offset the low prices he has to take for cuts less in demand. Otherwise he could not keep on serving you.

And neither could we. High as porterhouse prices may seem to you, our profits on cattle, including the return from hides and other by-products have averaged only about one dollar per head during the past few years, or about one-quarter of a cent per pound of beef.

BRAVES HEADED FOR HOME

Wind Up Western Trip of Two Victories and Eleven Defeats by Losing to Reds

Cincinnati, Sept. 2.—The Braves have seen their last bit of western scenery for this year and they are glad of it.

They completed their final western tour here yesterday by losing to the world champions, 6 to 3, giving the Braves a record of eleven defeats and two victories on the trip.

Watson would have tried to tame the Reds had not John Scott been anxious to get revenge for the way he was treated Monday. So Scotty went back for more punishment and got it. The Reds scored on him in four of the eight innings they went to bat. In the fifth they had a fat session. Two of the three runs they made in that round crossed the plate while Duncan was forcing Roush at second.

YANKS WILL TRY TO STOP SOX

Locals Prove Stumbling Block for Pace Makers in Flag Race

By NICK FLATLEY.

Fenway Park is still the battle ground of American League supremacy. The Red Sox are out of the race, the glory of the pennant spurt has passed, the world series thrill is no longer borne on the early Fall breezes—but still the gods of baseball are right on the job at the orchard that Bill Carrigan made famous.

Within a fortnight, two real contenders have been wrecked at the Fenway. The Cleveland Indians dropped around, and lost four games out of five. They tumbled from the roof into third place. The Chicago White Sox arrived, out in front, and apparently headed for easy triumph. They lost three in a row and have toppled off the roof.

Now the Yankees are here to play four games in three days. If the Sox run true to form, there will be plenty of gloom sprinkled around Gotham before the not far distant holi[illegible].

The A. L. is now closer than the New England store keeper. The Indians have recovered, and regained the pinacle. They are a fraction of a game ahead of the White Sox, who in turn head the visiting Yankees by an infinitesimal margin. There's just the space of one game difference between the three of them.

In two more shakes of a lamb's tail I'd have been between the sheets—but I got taken with another large idea for Camel Cigarette ads that's so bright you can phone 'em to cut the current because you just had your lamps lit!

Tell you, it's a whale of a stunt! Everybody right quiet—and hats off! NOW—far as I know or ever heard, there never has been one of those zippy slogans under that big display name "Camel". I'VE GOT ONE—get me? Put both your ears close to the ground and get the rumble of a broadside like this:

Camel

Once it meant an animal—now a Cigarette!

Wow, Pete! I'll testify that's a stoneless peach! Spread it like I've dented it in here—and you've uncorked an eyeful! Suppose you'll want to call me old Mr. Hammer because I hit the nail on the head!

And, bet real money that if this slogan stuff keeps me awake the rest of the night, I'll wire and offer it to R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. before you hit the deck! And, I'll be spending some of the proceeds for noon eats!

In the lang-wage" of Jigger Jones of Joplin, "you tell 'em old yacht, you've got the sales spirit!"

AXWORTHY COLT FAVORED IN READVILLE EVENT

2-YEAR OLD STARS IN BIG RACE

Horse Lovers Continue to Crowd Old Track Fourth Day of Meeting

Another large crowd turned out at Readville today to witness the Grand Circuit races, the feature event being the Boston Herald Purse of $2,000 for two-year-old trotters, in which a large field of youngsters measured strides.

David Axworthy, a colt owned by Charles W. Leonard and trained at Readville, was expected to cut quite a figure in this race, and among the others scheduled to start were Harvest Barbara, Rose Scott, Mr Hoover and Miss Rhinelander.

Hal Harden, B[illegible]nquee, Senator Dewey and Billy Sunday warmed up as if they were going to have a real battle for first in the 2.14 pace, while Hertelwyn Brusiloff, Lila Lac, Dottie Day and Eliza Dillon were among the starters in the 2.08 trot.

While Margaret Dillon ripped off two miles in 2.03¾ and 2.03¼, and heats slightly faster were turned in on the opening day, the week's fastest marks are due for a tumble tomorrow afternoon when the free-for-all pacers get into action.

With such stars as Adioo Guy, 2.00¾; Direct C. Burnett, 2.01¾; Sanardo, 2.00¼; Goldie Todd, 2.02¾, and Red Lancelot, 2.02¾, harness racing fans can expect a real speed carnival, probably the best Readville has had in several seasons.

Double Windup Card for Mat Carnival

Revere will be the scene of a wrestling carnival on the afternoon of Labor Day, when Promoter Lou Daro stages a double windup at the cycling track. There will also be a preliminary match.

It is one of the best wrestling cards ever offered in New England and is expected to attract more than 15,000 fans.

The feature contest will find Renato Gardini, Italian mat idol, battling with Bill Demetral of Chicago. There will be another big match with Wladek Zbyszko, Polish champion, trying to get the decision over Frank Yosko, Lithuanian title-holder.

The preliminary will bring together Zulu Haavappa and Soldier Chevalier. All three matches will be to a finish.

Gardini proved his class as a grappler when he recently gave Champion Joe Stecker a stirring battle at the beach oval. Before his match with Gardini it was said that Stecker was certain of victory once he was able to fasten his scissors on his opponent. A Dream of the "Dog Days"

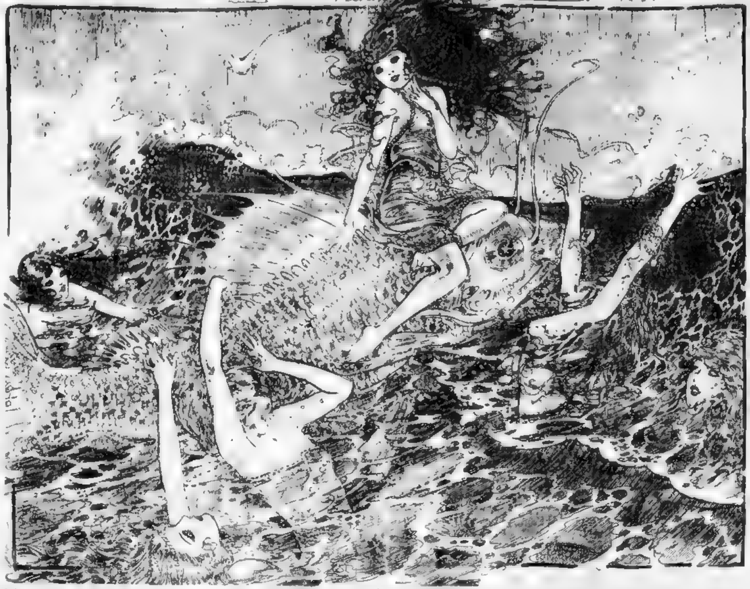
By NELL BRINKLEY



TO be far—far out on the toppling top of a big green wave laced with cool white foam; far—far out where no beach signs can say that you shall wear stockings and bloomers to your ankles; far out, riding a big silver and black fish with a playful willingness to carry you forward of his silver backfin, with the wind and water calling and looping your hair with salt pearls; far out where the sea people come up to play and follow you—their strange fish tails seen waveringly in the green of the surface, sunlit water, against the dark blue of the deep water below, their strange eyes smiling, their green hair trailing, their white hands tossing: to be far out—cool—cool—and "everything!" Oh, dream of dog days. Oh—soggy August! Oh, sugar! as the "Virginian" said when he had reached the end of a not meagre vocabulary and still needed to talk.

When Hearts Are Trumps

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER LIV

DURING the week that followed, the question that had come to Barbara on the night of her return from Boston recurred to her often [illegible] from her as one of several things she must not contemplate.

If Uncle Arthur had not been eager to have her engaged to John Brandon, then Aunt Cynthia had been mistaken, that was all. Or it might have been that Aunt Cynthia, knowing the state of the Paige exchequer, had taken it for granted that her brother was anxious about his niece's future.

Be that as it might be, the die was cast, the step had been taken; Barbara was engaged to be married And the fact remained that Uncle Arthur had expressed himself as satisfied

Then that object must be dismissed [illegible] mind What was past was past The future was her only concern now

The [illegible] subject on which she must not allow herself to dwell was Robert Elliott, in spite of all her determination although she brought conscience and will power to her aid the thought of him [illegible]

He had not been in Summerfield [illegible] he had run up at least twice a month for week-ends. This year he had not done so.

In Robert's Rooms

One evening in September Tom White, who had been on to New York on business, informed Barbara that he had spent an evening at Robert's rooms

"Poor old Bob is very pale and thin," Tom remarked "He says he is perfectly well, but his looks belie his words. He has taken no vacation"

Barbara did not know just what to say She wanted to ask many questions, but dared not

"It—it—must be hot in New York in the Summer," she faltered, casting about for some apt rejoinder

"No worse than in other big cities," Tom affirmed "But, you see, Bob has never before spent a whole Summer in town, and he feels it, I guess."

Uncle Arthur, entering the drawing-room at this moment, heard Tom's last sentence.

"Were you speaking of young [illegible]" he asked "I have not seen him in several months"

"No" Tom said. "He has stayed in New York all Summer I was just telling Bab about it. He is working too hard, I believe."

"Too bad! He's a nice chap. I like him!" Arthur declared "He makes a mistake in overworking at his age" Then, as John Brandon was ushered into the drawing-room, he turned to him with a smile

"Old folks like us know better than to overwork—eh, John?"

"Old folks like us!" Tom White repeated the words to himself on his way home He had not stayed long after Brandon's arrival, although his host had urged him to remain.

Yet even her uncle did [illegible] And, after all, was not John Brandon old enough to be her father?

"An infernal shame!" Tom muttered. "But she walked into it with her eyes open. She is pale and thin too, just as Bob is

"If I were Providence, I would have arranged their affairs differently—and probably have made a mess of it"

The uncle and th[illegible] of the object of th[illegible] were [illegible] Tom White [illegible] on Barbara's white face

Brandon Smiled

Arthur spoke of it first

"Bab," he remonstrated, "I wonder if you have not been w[illegible] too hard at your sewing, shopping and so forth?"

"Indeed, no, Uncle I have not," the girl denied, flushing under his scrutiny.

"Well, I do not like your looks these days," Arthur said bluntly. "Do you, John?"

John Brandon smiled. "I always like her looks," with a bow to his betrothed "But I must confess that she is paler than usual Don't you feel well, Bab?"

"Perfectly well," decidedly "Please do not worry about me. Everyone seems a bit fagged at the end of the Summer"

"Yes, and you have not been anywhere except up to Boston all this season"

Cynthia, appearing at this juncture, added her word

"You forget that she is to have a wedding trip in November Arthur [illegible] for that thought I would have insisted myself that she go away for a while"

"She must stop working and have some fun," Arthur affirmed "We'll have a celebration next month, Cynthia, in honor of her twenty-first birthday."

"It will be only a month before her wedding," Cynthia demurred.

Arthur was firm "All the more reason we should have it. It must be a big celebration—the last she will have as a girl" he added

He was looking at his niece and noted the slight start as of pain He wondered if John, too, saw it

Mrs. Solomon Says—

By HELEN ROWLAND

Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

HOW long oh thou Foolish One, wilt thou continue to cry out against the Vanity of men?

For verily, verily, I say unto thee a little VANITY is more potent than a New England conscience!

And though vanity may be the cause of many a man's sins, it is likewise the source of most of his virtues

Go to! Is it not vanity that causeth him to shave his chin, and maketh his kisses endurable?

Is it not vanity that maketh him to resist gluttony, lest he lost his waistline and his fatal charm?

Is it not vanity that prompteth him to cultivate the arts and graces, so dear to thine heart, lest he be called "dub" amongst men, and written down a "boor" amongst women?

Is it not vanity that driveth him to the polishing of his boots and his finger nails and the pressing of his garments, that he may appear "prosperous"?

Is it not vanity that driveth him to hard work and great achievement, that the world may say of him, "Lo, he is a SUCCESS!"?

Is it not vanity that maketh him to be scrupulous in the payment of his debts lest he be called "four-flusher," and inspireth him to be generous with his moneys, lest he be termed "cheap-skate" and "tightwad"?

Is it not vanity that inspireth him to acquire knowledge, lest he be named [illegible]?

Is it not vanity that maketh him to adorn his wife in jewels and fine raiment for the confusion and admiration of the multitude?

Yea, even his morality and uprightness may peradventure, be inspired by vanity, that he may hear himself acclaimed "worthy," amongst the righteous.

Go to! Was it not the vanity of Napoleon that drove him on to victory? And the vanity of Diogenes that caused him to be truthful? And the vanity of Hercules that inspired him to feats of strength and courage?

Yea, verily And the vulnerable spot in Hercules, as in every man, was NOT his heel but in his vanity!

Then, I charge thee, seek not to shatter thy Beloved's vanity.

For this is the softest spot in a man's makeup; and without it, NO woman can lead him in the way in which he should go.

Verily, verily, through his vanity, a man may be flattered into heaven; whereas nagging driveth him to perdition; and coercion rolleth off his soul as water off a mackintosh.

For, a man's conscience may be lost or mislaid.

It dependeth upon his digestion. It sleepeth on the job.

But his VANITY taketh no holidays. It worketh day and night, without ceasing. It is self-starting

And, so long as a spark thereof still liveth, there is HOPE for him!

Selah.

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND O'Connor

O'CONNOR

VARIATIONS — Connor, Conor, Conners, O'Conor, Conyers.

RACIAL ORIGIN—Irish.

SOURCE—A given name.

IN the days when Ireland led all Europe as the centre of Christian culture and vigor, following the barbarian invasions of the decaying Roman Empire; in the days when the Irish kings, under the single leadership of their "Ard Righ," or "High-King," presented a united front to the Viking and the Saxon; when England was yet a land of numerous and antagonistic Anglo Saxon kingdoms, largely pagan; long before the Norman conquest of England and the countries following it saw the first growth of family names in that country: the name of O'Connor was already a family name in Ireland It was the name of the kings of Connaught, who were descended from the famous "Hui Niall" or O'Neill line, which gave ancient and medieval Ireland so many of its monarchs

If the ancient rule were adhered to, the modern families of the O'Connor group would spell their names "Hui Conchobhair," but it would not be pronounced so very much unlike "O'Connor," except for the injection of slurred like gutturals and aspirates. As a given name, "Conchobhar" means "the helping warrior." The King Conchobhar on whom the O'Connor families are founded died in the year 937 A. D

But it must always be remembered that all who bear this name are not necessarily descendants of the king. The majority undoubtedly are descendants of followers of his banners. This rule holds good for all Irish names, for there are no Irish names except those which took their origin from the given names or sobriquets of chieftains and kings

The Adventures of Ann

By Hal Coffman

CHAPTER XIII.

CLAIRE told Betty what a wonderful thing it was for Ann this interest Harwood had taken in her. Claire was so good and wholesome herself that it was hard for her to see or believe any wrong intentions in others All she could think of was the wonderful opportunity that had come into Ann's life and that by being able to cultivate her voice Ann could grow to be something in the world and not have to lead the humdrum existence she and Betty had led all their lives.

As for Betty, she didn't like the arrangement at all. It worried her, and she could not see just why Harwood wanted to do all the things he said he was going to do for the family, unless there was some hidden motive behind it all. She had mentioned this to their father, but he, like Claire, had been dazzled by Harwood's wealth and suave manner

For, like many other fathers in the world, he had always been more interested in things outside his home than in it. Ever since his wife had died, Claire and Betty had run the house and raised Ann He was the kind of man who had been working at a mediocre job for years, satisfied and lacking the initiative to try for something better.

Ann and the mysterious woman saw Harwood's big limousine as it drew up to the curb, and they hurried downstairs to go to Savoni's for Ann's first lesson. As they went out the front door they met Frank coming in. Ann barely nodded to him as she entered the luxurious car and was whisked away

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent. or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupify, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. There can be no danger in the use of Castoria if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher as it contains no opiates or narcotics of any kind.

Children Cry For Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Let's Think It Over.

There is such a thing as saying too much on any subject, and the "grand-stand" talker sooner or later becomes a bore. The truth is always welcomed, and the truth reiterated and confirmed is more than welcome—it reaches your innermost soul.

Fletcher's Castoria is all its advertising has claimed for it. Scrutinized by the microscope of public opinion and used for over thirty years it stands without a peer in the hearts of thoughtful, cautious, discerning Mothers. And once used, mother love—there is no substitute for mother love—will scorn to try a "substitute" or a "just-as-good".

Masquerading under many names drugs that are injurious to the tender babe have found their way into some households, but the light of experience soon casts them out. Are they cast out before it is too late?

GOMPERS FLAYS U. S. CHAMBER

Sees in Open Shop Stand "Spirit of Jungle Man Who Started Out to Kill"

By SAMUEL GOMPERS,

President of the American Federation of Labor.

(Written for the Universal Service.)

Washington, Sept. 1.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor at its recent meeting had under consideration certain propositions just adopted by the United States Chamber of Commerce through referendum vote. These propositions were adopted by the Chamber in two reports.

The first report is entitled "Principles underlying the employment relation." It contains a declaration in favor of the so-called "open shop" which is in reality a closed shop against union men. In this report are twelve planks. Plank two is as follows:

"The right of open shop operation is an essential part of individual right of contract possessed by each of the parties."

CHALLENGES UNIONS.

This is a direct challenge to the trade-union movement coming from the heart of America's financial power. The spirit coincides exactly with the spirit of the jungle man who started out to kill.

The effort to make it appear that the so-called "open shop" involves the "individual right of contract" is so far outworn as to be pitiable. The right of an individual to undermine and destroy the standards of living and the industrial safety of his fellow workers has been so long since exploded as to be unworthy of further discussion. The individual has no such right.

In plank four the United States Chamber of Commerce evidently has something in mind which it does not care to set forth in plain language. It follows:

WEAPON OF TREACHERY.

"The public welfare, the protection of the individual, and sound employment relations require that associations or combinations, employers or employes, or both, must equally be subject to the authority of the State and legally responsible to others for their conduct and that of their agents."

Of course all organizations of Americans are equally subject to the laws. What the Chamber of Commerce doubtless means, but does not care to say, is that it would like to have trade unions subjected to law in a manner not applicable to chambers of commerce and associations of employers.

The entire declaration is a cunning device calculated to create the impression of fairness while wielding the favorite weapons of treachery.

CANNOT DESTROY UNIONS.

The American labor movement has achieved a strength which cannot be destroyed by such methods. That the Chamber of Commerce has gone outside of its legitimate field in launching this attack upon the trade union movement is not surprising because the membership is overwhelmingly in opposition to the trade union movement.

It is to be regretted that there are those in America who have so small ability to express themselves in anything but the terms of greed and exploitation, who have so slight regard for the welfare of humanity as to make declarations of this character possible. But so long as there are those to whom the principles of liberty and justice make no appeal it will be necessary to struggle against these forces. There is no movement in American life so well equipped to make this struggle as the American Federation of Labor.

EAT and Get Thin

This is turning an old saying face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible.

If you are overfat; opposed to physical exertion; fond of the table and its good things, and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, go to your druggist (or write to the Marmola Co., 90 Garfield Building, Detroit, Mich.) and give him, (or send them) one dollar, thus satisfying your ambition for a trim, slim figure, by receiving a good size box of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription); take one of these pleasant candy tablets after each meal and at bedtime, and you will lose your fat at the rate of two, three or four pounds a week.

Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola Prescription Tablets are not only harmless but really beneficial to the general health. You don't need starvation diet or weakening exercises. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

The Truth About Eczema and Piles

Thousands and thousands of people, says Peterson of Buffalo, are learning every week that one 35 cent box of Peterson's Ointment will abolish eczema and banish piles, and the grateful letters I receive every day are worth more to me than money.

"I had eczema for many years on my head and could not get anything to stop the agony. I saw your ad and got one box, and I owe you many thanks for the good it has done me. There isn't a blotch on my head now and I couldn't help but thank Peterson, for the healing is great."—Miss Mary Hill, 420 Third avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I have had itching piles for 15 years and Peterson's is the only ointment that relieves me, besides the piles seem to have gone."—A. B. Ruger, 1127 Washington Avenue, Racine, Wis.

Use Peterson's Ointment for old sores, salt rheum, scaling and all skin diseases. Druggists recommend it. Mail orders filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

To Make Hairs Vanish From Face, Neck or Arms

(Beauty Culture)

Keep a little powdered delatone handy and when hairy growths appear make a paste with some of the powder and a little water, then spread over hairy surface. After 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be entirely free from hair or blemish. This simple treatment is unfailing, but care should be exercised to be sure and get genuine delatone, otherwise you may be disappointed.—Advertisement.

RAIL AND OIL ISSUES LEAD

Carriers in Most Demand During the Morning; Motors in Forward Movement

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, with rails and oils the leaders. Carriers were the most active class. St. Louis and Southwestern, St. Louis and San Francisco, Erie, Baltimore & Ohio and Chesapeake & Ohio sold at their highest for the year to date. Motors figured in the forward movement.

Call loans renewed at 8 per cent. Foreign exchange rates were lower. Demand sterling opened at $3.53¼, off ¾ cent; francs at .06935, off .0003½ cent; lire at $.0467, unchanged; marks at $.0200, off $.0001.

UP AT THE OUTSET.

Prices were higher in the instance of most issues when trading got going, but the movement was moderate, initial changes being fractional. Rails continued to be the feature and were strong as a group as well as active. Oils and motors moved up a point, some of the former making larger gains than carriers, while steels and equipments lagged somewhat in the advance. Sugars were quiet but rather firm. Early trading had no outstanding feature. The lowering of the call rate to 7 per cent, and more talk of an easier money situation was heard today. The latest condition reports by national banks were cited as evidence that loan liquidation is making progress, while large crops are pointed to as a guarantee of good business. But the other element is stubbornly maintaining its position, pointing to the European situation as still unsettled, and that coal and other strikes testify to international unrest, and high wages will prevent expected deflation, while the public will not resume buying until prices come down.

COMBINATION RAIL BUYING.

According to Wall Street reports there has been combination buying in Missouri Pacific and other low-priced rails. Important interests are said to have been accumulating Rock Island, Baltimore & Ohio and New Haven. Prospective earnings have caused demand for a number of low-priced issues. Recent profits have warranted the purchase of others, including St. Louis and San Francisco. That road reports for 1919 a surplus of $13,267,899, after deductions, as against $10,757,409 for the preceding year. It is said that plans for segregating Delaware, Lackawanna & Western coal properties are about perfected and that an anthracite mining company, with a capitalization set by rumor at $12,277,000, will be handed to stockholders as a dividend. The recent rise of the stock of this road indicated that some kind of a melon was ripening. Yesterday it was 30 points above its year's lowest. Trading sentiment is still bearish as regards industrials, but for the first time in several years it is bullish toward rails. This is reflected in the buying of bonds as well as stocks. During August there was an advance of 2.56 points for the bonds of twenty-five roads.

GERMANY CONSIDERING COMPULSORY LOAN LEVY

Berlin, Sept. 2.—German finances are in such a deplorable condition that the government has the levying of a compulsory loan under consideration, according to the official news agency. Its information, it declares, was gleaned from industrial sources. The German paper money now in circulation is approximately seventy billion marks.

PRICES ARE UP IN BOSTON

Local Market Begins Strong and Maintains Good Tone; Mutual a Curb Leader

The Boston market began like New York, with an upward movement and maintained a firm tone during the forenoon. Changes were small as a rule and the market was of ordinary breadth. Packing issues were stronger as a class and coppers ruled higher, but continued dull. Carson Hill was an active stock, but receded more than a point. Wickwire gained a point on a few transactions. It was weak yesterday, sagging three points. Bigheart was among the leaders, but showed but a trifling price change.

Issues to advance fractionally were Calumet & Hecla, East Butte, New Haven, Massachusetts Gas, Eastern Manufacturing, Orpheum, Connor Company, Swift & Co., Mexican Investment and Bigheart.

Among those to recede a little were Boston & Maine, United Shoe, National Leather and New England Telephone.

CURB WAS IRREGULAR.

The Curb market was irregular all the morning, but many issues sold unchanged in this market. Mutual was the feature. It opened at 69 cents, sold down to 40 cents and then recovered 18 cents. Trading was of moderate volume for the list as a whole. Among strong stocks at the start were Arizona Tip Top, Boston & Montana and Manhattan. Bagdad was weak.

At the end of an hour Little Kingdom was up 1 cent at 31 cents, Boston & Montana 3 cents at 90 cents and Eureka 1 cent at 31 cents. Mutual was off 17 cents at 58 cents. Tip Top and Manhattan had lost their gains.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Nyanza Mills at Woonsocket, R. I., have resumed full-time operations after a fortnight shutdown. They employ 750 hands.

A resumption of drifting on the 1,800-foot level of the East Butte property will be attempted soon. The water flow is lessening. It has retarded development work on a new ore body.

In regard to Old Dominion, it is reported that operations on the sixteenth level in the so-called 1,000 cross-cut have penetrated east to within 500 feet of the Arizona Commercial line, and at this point the vein has been cut and for twelve feet ore is running from 6 per cent. to 30 per cent. copper.

Arizona Commercial produced 800,000 pounds of copper in July and the output of this property for seven months approximates 4,400,000 pounds. It could produce from 12,000,000 to 14,000,000 a year.

The Beacon Trust Co. has declared a quarterly dividend of $3 and an extra of $2, both payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 20.

Nashua, N. H., has awarded to S. N. Bond & Co. a $40,000 temporary loan, dated Sept. 2 and payable Dec. 22, at 6.39 per cent. Other bidders were Harris, Forbes & Co., 7 per cent., and the Old Colony Trust Co., 6.50 per cent.

It was announced in New York yesterday that the Island Oil & Transport Corporation will pay off the $4,045,500 7 per cent. notes maturing on that date. The original issue was $4,500,000, and payment of $454,500 was anticipated.

The gas output of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company for August was 457,553,000 cubic feet, an increase of 0.9 per cent. compared with the corresponding month last year.

The property of the Jerome Verde Copper Co. has been closed, owing to lack of funds.

Dividend Declarations

Armour & Co. declared quarterly 1¾ per cent. preferred dividend, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 15.

Standard Oil Co. of Kentucky declared quarterly dividend of $3 a share, payable Oct. 1; books close Sept. 15 and reopen Oct. 2.

Remington Typewriter Co. declared quarterly dividends of $1.75 a share on first preferred and $2 a share on second preferred stocks, payable Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 10.

Amalgamated Oil Co. declared quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share, payable Oct. 15 to holders of record Sept. 30.

West Coast Oil Co. declared quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share, payable Oct. 5 to holders of record Sept. 30.

American Car & Foundry Co. declared quarterly dividends of 3 per cent. on common and 1¾ per cent. on preferred, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 15.

American Cigar declared quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. on preferred, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 15.

Yukon Alaska Trust declared quarterly dividend of $1 a share, payable Sept. 30 to holders of record Sept. 3.

P. Lorillard Co. declared quarterly dividends of 3 per cent. on common and 1¾ per cent. on preferred, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 15.

Weyman-Bruton Co. declared quarterly dividends of 2½ per cent. on common and 1¾ per cent. on preferred, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 14.

Eastern Steel Co. declared quarterly dividends of 1¾ per cent. on the first and second preferred, payable Sept. 15 to holders of record Sept. 1.

South Porto Rico Sugar Co. declared extra dividend of $2 a share on common and quarterly dividend of $3, also quarterly $2 a share on preferred, all payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 15.

George W. Helme Co. declared quarterly dividends of 2½ per cent. on common and 1¾ per cent. on preferred, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 11.

Lehigh Valley Railroad declared quarterly dividends of 1¾ per cent. on common and of 2½ per cent. on preferred, payable Oct. 2 to holders of record Sept. 11.

American Smelters Securities Co. declared quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent. on preferred A and 1¼ per cent. on preferred B, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 11.

Why Dividend Was Passed

The reason assigned by the management for the omission of the usual quarterly dividend declaration of 2½ per cent. by the Eastern Steel Company is that although earnings are sufficient to pay it money stringency and larger capital requirements make it conservatively advisable not to make such a disbursement at this time.

CANADA TO BAR U. S. GOODS

Tariff Will Be Revised to Exclude Many Classes of American Imports

Washington, Sept. 2. — Canada is preparing to revise her tariff in such a manner that it will act as a virtual wall against many classes of imports from the United States. At the same time she is inviting numerous American industries to erect manufacturing branches in Canada where they will employ Canadian instead of American workmen.

The situation is disturbing officials of this government who are puzzled as to the kind of reprisal, if any, they shall recommend. It will reach a climax when the Canadian tariff commission now studying conditions makes its report.

The importance of the proposed tariff wall will be realized when it is understood that Canada is the second biggest customer for American wares. During the fiscal year ending June 30 last, exports to Canada were $890,135,023, as opposed to $810,745,160 in 1919. Our imports from Canada in 1920 were only $537,377,381, giving us quite a balance of trade.

Only England purchased more goods from America in 1920 than Canada. France was second in purchases in 1919, but dropped back this year.

Copper Market Stagnant

Stagnation is said to characterize the copper market at present, practically no metal being sold. While large producers are still asking 19 cents a pound small ones and second-hand sellers are quoting around 18½. The trade expects little business before the middle of this month. Lead quotations have not changed but that market is said to be easier. The tendency for spelter is downward.

REMOVES ELEVEN POSTAL CLERKS

Burleson Discharges Those Accused of Pernicious Political Activity in Soliciting Funds

Washington, Sept. 2.—Postmaster General Burleson has ordered the removal of eleven clerks employed in the Chicago postoffice, against whom charges of "pernicious political activity" had been lodged by postal inspectors.

The specific complaint was that they "solicited or caused to be solicited sums of money from the public, and published or caused to be published false and slanderous statements relative to the postal service."

The dismissed men are all officers of the Chicago Postal Union.

Charges preferred against these men caused a nation-wide stir. Officers of the National Association of Postal Employes appealed even to the White House. They asserted that discrimination was practiced against the accused clerks because they were members of a union.

LYNN REGISTERS 5,100 WOMEN AND 2,700 MEN

At the close of registration in Lynn, 5,100 women and 2,700 men had enrolled as new voters. Scores of men and women were turned away in Chelsea but will be given a last opportunity tonight. At Swampscott over 200 women were registered.

WIFE ASKS AID TO FIND HER MISSING HUSBAND

Has anyone seen Paul Owen Schoolcraft? If he reads this will he communicate with his young wife? The American has received a letter from Mrs. Schoolcraft, now in Portsmouth, N. H., saying he left her July 21 last without giving any reason or telling where he was going. According to her description, he has light hair, blue eyes, is clean shaven, five feet three inches tall, weighs 140 pounds, and wore a dark gray suit and white straw hat.

NO RENT BOOST HERE LANDLORD PUTTING YOU OUT

Every Man His Own Boss

I have helped over 200 families from the City Tenement to independence. Many started with only a $10 bill and monthly payments of $5 to $10, making a modest start according to their means, and by the help of my 20 years' specializing in this line of business are now the owners of respectable homes and happy, healthy families. No more "Rent Bills," no more "Put Him Out." Their bank accounts are now growing. Vegetables, flower gardens, hens, lawns and shade trees now replace the hot sidewalk and street. I own a large number of very attractive garden lots I will sell you at your own terms, and extend you the same help, courteous and lenient treatment, and offer you my 20 years' of expensive, hard-earned experience to give you the same independence and comfort as my other customers. All I want is the help of honest, hard-working, progressive people, like myself, who are ambitious to become self supporting. I want you to bring your family out to see me so I can show you the 200 actual proofs of my efforts for others. On receipt of your request today for circular telling "How to do it," I will send it by return mail. No one is too poor to make the right start by my method. Write today to MANAGER, P. O. Box 2869, Boston.

What About Mr. Cox's Campaign Fund?

How Much "Legitimate Profit" in Five Billions of British Purchases?

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.

Mr. Cox's magnificent "proof and exposure" come to this: Instead of tapping big corporations and very rich men for large lump sums, Mr. Harding's managers have planned a system of small political contributions spread over the whole country.

Mr. Cox says the amount desired was fifteen millions "to buy the country." It isn't likely that popular subscriptions will amount to fifteen millions. If they did, that would be fifteen cents apiece for each of the population.

If Mr. Hays, Mr. Upham and other friends of Mr. Harding can save this nation from the League of Nations and the war profiteers that are doing their best to elect Mr. Cox, fifteen cents apiece will be a cheap price for a great service.

If the people of this country got Mr. Cox for President, and with him the League of Nations, making the British government the real authority in the United States and throughout the world, how much do you think THAT would cost the people of this country in the first six months?

If every American could pay fifteen dollars or fifteen hundred dollars instead of FIFTEEN CENTS, and in return keep away from the League of Nations and the cost of insuring the British empire, it would still be a bargain.

What about Mr. Cox's campaign fund? Some parts of it are not quite as simple as the Republican plan of making PUBLIC collections for party purposes throughout the country.

For instance, you read, with sorrow, in the New York Times that Mr. Stettinius of J. P. Morgan & Co. is in the hospital undergoing an operation. You read, also: "Mr. Stettinius was purchasing agent in America for the allies. In that capacity Mr. Stettinius spent more than five billion dollars, CHIEFLY FOR GREAT BRITAIN, his purchases running to a hundred million dollars a month at certain times. When the United States entered the war Mr. Stettinius was appointed surveyor-general of supplies, becoming a member of the War Council, and bought everything the army required." Pretty close connection between Stettinius of J. Pierpont Morgan and England and the United States government, wasn't it? And we lent England the five billions she spent through Morgan & Co.

Of course, while they were spending billions for the United States, Stettinius and Morgan & Co. didn't make a cent of profit; perish the thought of any such possibility!

But how much do you suppose Stettinius and Morgan & Co. got in the way of a rake-off while they were spending five billions for the British government? There, of course, profit was perfectly legitimate.

An investigating committee would discover that they did pretty well. Before the war Mr. Morgan had his father's art treasures stored in the Metropolitan Museum, and was said to be retailing them to Rockefeller, Frick and others. Since the war began he has been a wholesaler; no retailing. All of the Morgan firm did pretty well; the head Morgan and Mr. Davison, who does Mr. Morgan's thinking for him; also Stettinius and all of them.

Even a minor Morgan partner found himself prosperous enough to buy the New York Evening Post as a toy. It must have cost a couple of million dollars. The other day, with great solemnity, it announced that it was "for the League of Nations and Cox." NOT, you will observe, for Cox AND the League of Nations, but, first, for the League of Nations, which Morgan & Co. know would mean more buying and more profits, and, secondarily, for Mr. Cox, the League of Nations' supporter, the individual who has promised, if elected President of the United States, to be the messenger boy of England and other European nations.

One little partner in Morgan & Co., when he bought the Evening Post and turned it over to the "League of Nations and Cox," made to Mr. Cox's campaign fund a bigger cash contribution than the total amount that the whole city of Chicago is supposed to raise to help the election of Mr. Harding, if Chicago supplies its full quota.

If a junior partner in Morgan & Co. can spend a million and a quarter for "the League of Nations and Cox," how much do you think the big partners of Morgan & Co. could afford, Davison, Stettinius and the real Morgan, who is to Davison what the rhinoceros is to the rhinoceros bird?

It will be quite easy for Mr. Harding to explain to any ordinary American why citizens that believe in him and his party should be asked to contribute an average of fifteen cents apiece to his campaign fund.

It will NOT be so easy for Mr. Cox to explain how it happens that one of the minor Morgan partners spent a million or two of the fortune made as purchasing agent for England upon a newspaper to support "The League of Nations and Cox."

Congressman Britten, of Illinois, says the British government in its own ingenious ways is helping to finance Cox's campaign. Nothing could be more probable. England got five thousand million dollars from one Democratic administration. She sees in Mr. Cox a man who has said: "I shall carry out every pledge made by Mr. Wilson." What better investment for England than to finance another Democrat that, in a grand burst of "patriotic" League of Nations asininity, might give England five thousand millions MORE of American money.

British investment in the Cox campaign fund would be a wise investment apart from any further loans to England. For thus far the Democratic administration has said to England: "Never mind about paying interest to us Americans; just forget it."

Forgetting the interest on five thousand millions means for England a saving of two hundred and fifty million dollars a year. Worth saving!

Harding, if elected, might say to England: "If you are rich enough to go on building battleships, you are rich enough to pay what you owe; for instance, that interest."

Cox, if he followed Mr. Wilson's footsteps, as he says he would, if elected, may say to England: "Blood is thicker than water; you may continue to forget what you owe us." Wouldn't it be wise for England to finance Mr. Cox directly or indirectly or both under such conditions?

Remember, also, that Mr. Cox promises a League of Nations that would send American men as well as American dollars to fight countries in Europe. Wouldn't that be worth buying with a big campaign fund? English and French workmen are tired of fighting. They want the Americans over there. Cox would send them.

Mr. Cox's newspaper supporters pretend to be vastly amused at Congressman Britten's charge that British bankers are financing Cox.

But what about Morgan & Co.? Are they not British bankers, with their banking house in England, and their profitable English purchasing agency that, as the New York Times tells you, handled five billions of English money — $100,000,000 a month.

When one of the minor Morgan partners spends a couple of millions for a newspaper and turns it over to Mr. Cox, what KIND of money is being used there to elect Mr. Cox? Is it English money or is it American? Where did it come from?

Of course, those noble patriots at the corner of Broad and Wall streets must have refused all through the war to make a penny out of their own dear country. Therefore, what they made, and it was plenty, they must have made out of England, the land that they represented in war, the land that wants Cox for President now.

Will Mr. Cox tell Mr. Lamont, of Morgan & Co., that he doesn't care to have his League of Nations' campaign financed by an Anglo-American bank with English money? He will NOT, probably. But the people of the United States will tell Mr. Cox, if he asks them, that they would rather have Mr. Harding and his campaign financed by contributions, made all over the country voluntarily, rather than by lump sums that buy newspapers with money made from a rake-off on purchases for England.

How much profit do you think there was for Morgan & Co. in the late war? The question is interesting, and if this country gets rid of an administration that employed the English agent to do United States purchasing, the matter may be investigated. In any case you may be sure it was a very considerable sum.

How much more profit do you suppose Morgan & Co. would make out of the NEXT few wars if, as the Morgan & Co. New York Evening Post puts it, "the League of Nations and Cox" should go through? Under the League of Nations we should be mixed up in every war, our men and money always ready. England is intelligently grateful and would, of course, make Morgan & Co. purchasing agent once more, and allow Stettinius again to handle "a hundred million dollars a month" borrowed from the United States.

Why shouldn't Morgan & Co. and the newspapers owned or controlled by them advocate "the League of Nations and Cox"?

Which campaign fund pleases you best—many small contributions openly made by Americans everywhere for Harding or lump sums from English profits for Cox?

Another Irish Hero

Has the world ever seen a more heroic spectacle than the Irish leaders and people are now presenting in their struggle for liberty?

The death that Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, is dying, makes the sacrifice of Nathan Hale seem insignificant, although it was the greatest Fate permitted Hale to offer his country. Hale regretted that he had only one life to give America. Circumstances are permitting Terence MacSwiney to give a thousand lives to Ireland.

He is dying by hours, minutes and seconds. On the scaffold it is all over in a moment. In MacSwiney's cell death wracks him with torture day and night.

But there are other Irish hearts suffering the agonies of death —they watch the fearful ebbing of MacSwiney's life. His beautiful wife, his son, his sister and all his relatives, asking no mercy nor suggesting an abandonment of the ghastly sacrifice, await in a torpor of pain the message that will announce the flight from a world of savage and hypocritical men the dauntless spirit of a husband, father, son, brother, patriot, to join the spirit of Robert Emmet and a dozen other martyrs of British tyranny in Ireland.

In the face of this awful spectacle, Candidate Cox and the Democratic party, bound to the Wilson English chariot, are asking the American people to pledge its power by Article X. of the League of Nations to aid Great Britain to crush such spirit if she needs our help against any power which may be brought to the aid of Ireland.

Stars and Stripes

Lloyd George has been asked to "do the big thing" for Ireland. The big thing would be to set Ireland free, and Lloyd George will not do that until he has to.
